HACKMAN SHOT DEAD; TAXICAB SMASHES TREE

Mannie Solomon, 31, Is Mysteriously Slain in Southwest.

TWO MEN ARE SEEN FLEEING FROM SPOT

Victim Was Witness Against Two Soldiers Now Held in Guardhouse.

Mannie Solomon, 31-year-old hackman, was shot to death in his taxicab late last night on Union street at the corner of O street southwest. Robbery, the current taxi rate war and personal enmity are among theories on which police are working in an attempt to solve the slaying.

The car was going at a good rate of speed when the bullet was fired and crashed into a tree near the corner. So great was the impact the bumper and fenders were smashed into the engine.

One bullet pierced Solomon's neck, entering from the left side and emerging from the right. His neck was broken and the jugular vein severed, according to the Casualty Hospital ambulance surgeon who pronounced him dead.

Men Are Seen Fleeing.

John Gale, employe of the Capital Traction Co., whose southwest barn is nearby, told police that he heard a shot at 10:55, followed by the crash of glass. Running to the point whence the noise came, he saw the disabled car, but observed no one running from it.

Discovering the driver slumped over the wheel, lifeless, Gale notified police and summoned the ambulance.

Eighteen-year-old William D. Henderson, jr., said that he was in the bedroom of his home at 425 O street, which is a stone's throw from the scene of the tragedy, preparing to retire when he heard the gun's report, accompanied by the crash of glass.

Looking out the window, the youth reported, he saw two men fleeing up an alley in the rear of his home. One was wearing a dark coat and light hat and seemed to be fumbling with his hip pocket. He could not describe the other man, nor could he discern the color of either man.

Victim Tried to Save Life.

That the driver made a desperate but fruitless effort to save his life was evidenced by the fact that his shirt was torn and several buttons from it were strewn on the floor of the cab and on the running board. The glass in the right rear door was broken.

From the diagonal course taken by the steel-jacketed bullet, the gun could have been fired by some one outside of the cab, as well as by a passenger. A fence near the tree against which the machine crashed bore an impression which would have been made by a bullet striking at an acute angle and glancing off. The shell was found on the sidewalk nearby.

Solomon was driving south on Union street, approaching the intersection of O street, when the bullet was fired.

Witness Against Soldiers.

The ignition switch was still on, silent testimony to the suddenness of the attack.

Learning that Solomon gave testimony against two soldiers at Fort Humphreys who were convicted of an assault charge last week and sentenced to four and one-half months in the guard house, headquarters police were dispatched to the fort early this morning.

They discovered that the soldiers were locked up and an inspection disclosed that they could not have been in Washington when the shooting occurred.

Alexandria police notified authorities here early this morning that they had captured a colored man and were holding him as a suspect.

Three colored bandits who held up a South Capitol street grocery two hours before the murder used a .45 caliber pistol and the search for them was intensified by the shooting. The story of the holdup is on the last page.

The father and one brother and one sister of the victim went to the dark corner where Solomon was slain and identified the body. All bordered on hysteria.

An inquest will be held at the morgue at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

The dead cabman, who was unmarried, lived with his family at 707 Quincy street northwest. He is survived by his father, mother, three sisters and two brothers.

Vote on President Delayed in Spain

Oratory in Assembly Puts Off Balloting on Zamora's Status.

Madrid, July 29 (A.P.).—The Spanish National Assembly adjourned again late tonight, after a six-hour session, without having voted upon the status of Provisional President Alcala Zamora and his government.

Although a vote was confidently expected today, after a postponement without it last night, the debate brought forth such a flood of oratory it was impossible to put the question.

Nine members spoke today and nine more have asked to speak tomorrow, so that it was considered doubtful tonight whether a vote could be reached before Friday.

Commission Delays Cornwallis Decision

Action Is Postponed Until Association Can Vote on Scene Deletion.

The net result of a three-hour chamber session of the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission yesterday apparently was a decision to postpone definite action on whether to depict the surrender of Cornwallis in the pageant at the battle field in October.

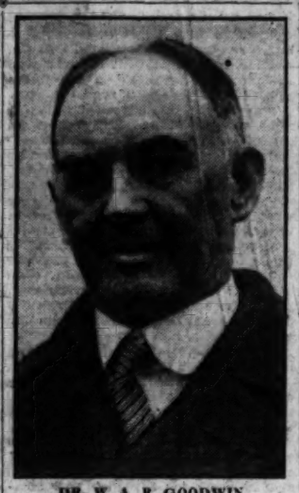
After the session had closed, Representative S. O. Bland, of Virginia, secretary of the commission, handed out to newspapers the following typewritten statement, which he refused to amplify:

"In view of the representations made to the commission by Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, president of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association, it was voted to postpone any final action with regard to the deletion of the surrender scene from the pageants until an opportunity had been given the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association to express its opinion by formal vote."

Mr. Bland declined to discuss the matter further, or to say what representations had been made by Dr. Goodwin.

"I haven't time to rush into a newspaper controversy," he declared.

Before the meeting he told reporters that several matters were to come before the session which he "considered more important than the surrender incident."



DR. W. A. R. GOODWIN.

He had nothing to say about these matters after the commission had adjourned.

Dr. Goodwin, an Episcopal minister of Williamsburg, said after he left the meeting that he took the stand it would be indelicate to depict a fallen foe. He said he was certain that the Southern people would not

RAIN CUTS MERCURY AFTER NEAR RECORD

Temperature of 97 Attained in Next to Hottest Day of Season.

A fast-moving storm swept over Washington last night after the second hottest day of the summer, sending the thermometer down more than 20 degrees and paving the way for the thundershowers predicted for this afternoon which are expected to break the back of the heat wave. Five persons and a horse were prostrated yesterday.

The official maximum temperature was 97 degrees late in the afternoon. The thermometer at the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk registered 102 degrees. The heat has been exceeded on only one other day this summer, July 20, with a temperature of 99. July 1 registered the same official temperature as yesterday.

At 6 o'clock in the evening, shortly before the storm swooped down, the thermometer stood at 97. This maximum had been reached once before earlier in the afternoon. At 8 o'clock, after the lightning and rain had passed over the city, the temperature was 76 degrees. The remainder of the night remained comparatively cool and a lower temperature is expected to prevail this morning prior to the thundershowers, when a further drop is anticipated. The cooler weather is expected to continue tomorrow.

The equine victim recorded in yesterday's prostrations was pulling an old clothes wagon at Fourth and N streets northwest when it collapsed. The animal was treated by a veterinarian and recovered sufficient strength to proceed on its way.

Persons prostrated were: Jerry Richardson, 33 years old, at Four and a Half and I streets southwest; Emergency Hospital, condition undetermined; Edward F. Wilson, 4202 Twelfth place northeast, machinist at The Post, collapsed while at work, Emergency Hospital, not serious; Luther Fair, colored, 62 years old, 622 N street northwest, at Military road and Joyce street northwest, while working for Union Paving Co., Emergency Hospital, condition undetermined and Bernard Middleton, colored, 73 years old, of 630 Delaware avenue southwest, while at work on Eighteenth street near Shepherd street northwest, Freedmen's Hospital, not serious and Frank Jackson, colored, of Richmond, Va., while at work on Indiana avenue;

Dawes' Daughter Given Delay in Speeding Case

Evanston, Ill., July 29 (A.P.).—Miss Virginia Dawes, 17-year-old daughter of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, was granted a continuance when a charge of speeding was called by Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter today.

Miss Dawes telephoned that she was indisposed. She pleaded not guilty yesterday after her arrest by Policemen Hubert Kelsh and Fred Wynn, who said she drove past Northwestern University campus at 45 miles an hour.

REENTRY PERMIT RACKET REVEALED

Thousands of Aliens Let In Illegally, Is Charge; Clerk Is Held.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—A "reentry permit" racket, which allegedly enables thousands of aliens to enter and live in America without legal right, was disclosed tonight by immigration authorities.

The racket was uncovered by Federal agents working under United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, and the immigration authorities.

It was also revealed that Simon Rothberg, a clerk in the reentry division of the local immigration offices, is being held in $2,000 bail, charged with "knowingly receiving and accepting fraudulent reentry permits" at costs to immigrants ranging from $175 to $250.

Rothberg will be questioned tomorrow by Assistant United States Attorney W. B. Herlands and J. Edward Lumbard, chief of the U. S. attorney's office criminal division, who said tonight that many more might be taken into custody.

Authorities said the racket probably has been in operation a long time and thousands of aliens are living here in constant fear of arrest and deportation after paying heavily to obtain the "permits."

The reentry permit mill forged signatures of foreigners already admitted to America on fraudulent permits, going so far as to take care that the physical characteristics of the person whose name was forged tallied with those of the immigrant to whom the permit was sold.

Italian family names, used by large numbers of people, were most frequently forged, authorities said.

Senator Stephens Rests; May Survive

Memphis Physicians Hope Mississippi Leader Will Defeat Death.

Memphis, Tenn., July 29 (A.P.).—Hubert D. Stephens, 56-year-old junior United States senator from Mississippi, was "dangerously sick" at the Methodist Hospital here tonight, but physicians expressed hope for his recovery.

Dr. J. A. Crisler, jr., one of attending physicians, said he was hopeful that Senator Stephens would recover. He added that his patient was "dangerously sick," but that he was resting comfortably.

Senator Stephens, stricken at his home at New Albany, Miss., Monday night, was brought to the hospital here where an emergency operation for acute gangrenous appendicitis was performed early Tuesday.

War to Cut Price of Bread To Be Next Murray Crusade

Oklahoma City, July 29 (U.P.).—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray added another enterprise tonight to those he has undertaken "for the good of the common people."

"Bread prices," said the governor, "are too damn high and the bread manufacturers are to blame. They're the next target in my fight for lower living costs in Oklahoma."

He then outlined a plan to bake bread in penal institutions of the State and sell it in competition with bakers, thus forcing lower prices.

"With wheat selling at 30 cents a bushel, present bread prices are ridiculous," he declared. "I don't care what the bakers say."

Most bakeries of the State have been selling a 12-ounce loaf for 5 cents and a 20-ounce loaf for 10 cents. Bakers said tonight that production of bread at penal institutions will not be a fair test, since labor charges will not be figured.

The matter of high bread prices was just another of the moves with

SLAYING OF BOY STARTS WAR ON GANG LEADERS

Auto Tag Is Checked, but Bruno, Suspect, Says He Has Alibi.

DOZENS OF SICILIANS WHO SAW CAR SILENT

Public Feeling Runs High; Police Comb New York; Rewards Offered.

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—A relentless man hunt through the recesses of New York's half-world led tonight to the apprehension of one suspect, but police ran into a detailed alibi when they sought to name Harry Bruno as the owner of an automobile from which gangsters sprayed death into the ranks of playing children.

Quietly and quickly, Bruno, whom police first identified as a beer runner, but later said was a truckman not identified with any gang enterprise, was taken to a precinct station a few blocks from the spot where five children fell wounded, one of them fatally, by the fire of gangsters' guns yesterday.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, who tersely instructed his 16,000 men, "Go to the limit—bring in the killers," hurried to the station to direct a searching examination of Bruno. When he emerged from the building after an hour of questioning, however, he said Bruno had offered evidence that the motor car which he owns does not resemble the gunmen's machine.

Alibi Also Presented.

Mulrooney also said Bruno had presented an alibi as to his whereabouts yesterday when the death car tore through a steaming street in Harlem's "Little Italy," apparently bent upon exterminating a rival hoodlum.

"But we still have some clews we can not disclose," said the commissioner.

He added that Bruno will be detained for another effort to learn what knowledge, if any, he has of a crime that has excited New York's "six million" into a concerted demand for action.

Earlier in the night an informant, whose identity was closely guarded, told the police the killers' automobile bore the figures "9Y51-91 NY" on its license plate—figures which corresponded with a license owned by Bruno.

Car Declared Different.

However, Mulrooney said Bruno's story indicated that his car was an inexpensive machine, unlike the gangsters', which probably had been parked in the street where the shooting occurred several hours before.

The police commissioner took charge of the man hunt as soon as news of the shooting was communicated to him at his home last night. He assembled at once the largest force of picked men sent to "get" a murderer since Francis Crowley, diminutive two-gun man, was bombed out of a West Side furnished room after he had killed a patrolman a few months ago.

The commissioner called his deputies into a conference. Their discussion was secret, and its first result was the dispatching of several score of detectives and half a hundred patrolmen, their uniforms changed to plain clothes, into the neighborhood to try to break down a silence that had spread over the Sicilian community.

All Speak Italian.

Each of the officers spoke Italian. His special job was to listen—to pick up any scrap of conversation among the frightened population which might provide a lead for other detectives to follow.

The 24 hours had yielded no word from the hundreds who, driven from

HOOVER BEGINS NEW JOB STUDY WITH LEADERS

7,000,000 IDLE SEEN BY PRESIDENT GREEN

Urges Shorter Work Hours; Southern Railroad Plans No Wage Cut.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday began a new study of the unemployment situation designed to coordinate the diversified activities of the many agencies dealing with the problem.

Coming from a long conference at the White House, to which he was summoned, Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, said he believed his visit marked the start of a cooperative movement among the different relief organizations.

Almost at the same time, the American Federation of Labor issued a statement by President Green, predicting a "worse unemployment situation next winter than last." He said that a survey of 184 cities by the National Association of Community Chests showed that "relief needs will probably be twice as great."

Mr. Payne said that information on unemployment reaching him was not alarming, but could not be described as bright. The burden of caring for the unemployed, he added, rests primarily on the States, counties and municipalities.

"There is no possible reason," he said, "for the Federal Government being called upon now. We must guard against the dole. One look at England and Germany, where a dole system is at work, should convince intelligent Americans that we want no such system in this country."

Somber Views by Green.

Green painted a somber picture of unemployment based on the federation's figures for July. He estimated that in July 5,200,000 persons were without work and that if the usual seasonal unemployment comes after the fall pickup, 7,000,000 will be unable to find work next winter.

The federation president said the crucial need is for shorter hours.

"This is the only permanent solution to the unemployment problem. Other measures are mere palliatives. When we consider that with modern machines work which took the average man 52 hours in 1929 he can now do in 34 hours and that the average work hours have only been reduced from 52 to 50 hours a week, we understand why spare time has become unemployment instead of leisure."

President Hoover yesterday conferred with Fred C. Croxton, the acting chairman of his emergency committee for unemployment.

Mr. Payne said all the agencies of the Federal Government, the States, counties and municipalities were working to the same end, and that the movement which the President began yesterday looks to having them cooperate more fully than heretofore.

Can Not Do Relief Work.

The Red Cross, he said, under its charter, can not do unemployment relief work, but it does try to keep an accurate record of all types of need existing in the country. All this information, he added, has been turned over to the President.

Mr. Croxton, whose committee was appointed to coordinate relief activities, in June outlined his plans for mobilizing welfare organizations for aid during the coming winter. Surveys made at his suggestion by the Association of Community Chests were used as a basis for Green's statement that the burden next winter would be doubled.

Mr. Green restated yesterday the federation's program for unemploy-

Retired Accountant's Body Found Floating in Branch

Homicide Squad Seeks to Unravel Motives of Man's Death.

Members of the homicide squad of the Detective Bureau are probing circumstances surrounding the death of Kinzer Backensto, 73-year-old retired War Department statistician, whose body was found floating in the Eastern Branch yesterday near the Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge.

No marks indicating an attack or other foul play were found by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt after viewing the body of Blackensto last night. The elderly statistician had yesterday morning been reported missing since 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from his home at 717 Fifteenth street southeast, by Edward Ryan, a brother-in-law.

Coroner Nevitt said his delay in issuing a certificate in the case was prompted by a desire to learn whether Backensto might have desired to end his life or whether there may have been foul play.

Ryan told police that several youths of the neighborhood, who knew Mr. Backensto by sight, had seen him walking across the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge toward the east at about 1:30 a. m. yesterday.

WORLD FLIERS DOWN IN WALES AS PAIR TO ISTANBUL IS MISSING

Graf Zeppelin Forced Back by Fog, Report

Dirigible, Silent on Radio for 40 Hours, Believed Sighted Over Archangel; Berlin Expects Craft Home Today.

Berlin, July 29 (A.P.).—The giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin was reported tonight to be on its way back from the Arctic to Leningrad, whence it started for the far North four days ago, and was due to arrive there early tomorrow. The Graf was reported at 8 o'clock tonight (2 p. m., Eastern standard time) over Archangel.

It was believed here tonight that the reason for shortening the Arctic trip, which was originally intended to carry the big dirigible nearly to the North Pole, was the presence of heavy fogs over the Arctic regions, which made flying over the icy Nordenskiold Sea a very risky proceeding.

The news was happily received here, dispelling fears which had prevailed that all might not be well with the airship. Its radio had been silent for 40 hours.

The silence was being attributed tonight to the fact that the ship had entered the Arctic "zone of silence," and that this was responsible for interference with wireless transmission.

The Russian radio expert, Krenkel, told his friends before the Graf left Berlin, that, according to his Arctic experience, north and south transmission would probably be none too good.

This was borne out by the fact that the airship's signals were almost deafening as long as it moved eastward from Berlin, but quickly faded as soon as the ship started northward from Leningrad.

The radio expert at the Zeppelin Works at Friedrichshafen said tonight that he never expected to hear from the Graf at all beyond the eightieth degree of latitude, except perhaps by fits and starts at night.

Today's news all came from the Vardoe Radio Station, which relayed it, partly by wireless and partly by cable.

Fog Forces Herndon and Pangborn to Land in Field.

LEAVE FOR LONDON EARLY THIS MORNING

Ask Their Whereabouts of Excited Farmers; Crowds Gather.

Cardigan, Wales, July 30, Thursday (U.P.).—Hugh Herndon, jr., and Clyde Pangborn took off in their airplane, Miss Veedol, from the village of Moylegrove at 6:15 a. m. today (12:15 a. m. E. S. T.) for Croydon Airport, London, whence they will continue the projected flight around the world. Moscow is the next scheduled stop after London.

(Associated Press.)

The thirteenth eastward crossing of the north Atlantic by airplane was achieved yesterday by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., ambitious globe girdling aviators.

But when they descended in a farmer's field near Cardigan, Wales, there still was no definite word of Russell Boardman and John Polando, the adventurous pair who, bound for Istanbul, Turkey, left Floyd Bennett Field, New York, Tuesday, a few minutes before Pangborn and Herndon.

There were several reports of unidentified planes soaring high over the island-studded British coast, however, and the monoplane which Boardman and Polando pointed toward a new long-distance record had fuel for about 70 hours flying. It carried no radio.

Meantime, Amy Johnson, British woman flier, traveling from England to Tokyo, reached Kazan, Russia, and the Graf Zeppelin started back from the Arctic to Leningrad.

In this country, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew from North Beach, N. Y., to North Haven, Me., to bid their young son good-by before heading toward the Orient.

Herndon, Pangborn Forced Down.

Cardigan, Wales, July 29 (A.P.).—Prevented by fog from making Moscow the first stop of their projected round-the-world flight, Hugh Herndon, jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators, brought their plane safely down at 7 o'clock tonight on a sloping farm field at Moyle Grove, 5 miles from here, after a successful transatlantic crossing from New York.

The ocean crossing was made difficult by persistent fog all the way and the fog forced the aviators down when they still had a supply of fuel sufficient for eight hours more of flying.

Meanwhile no word was heard from the other American transatlantic plane, piloted by Russell Boardman and John Polando, which took off from New York at almost the same time as that of Herndon and Pangborn. There was nothing even upon which speculation as to the whereabouts of Boardman and Polando might be based.

It was assumed that they met the same foggy conditions which prevented Herndon and Pangborn from getting a glimpse of the ocean between Newfoundland and Ireland, but there was nothing in the way of reports, either in England or in Europe, to indicate what fortune might have befallen them.

Resolve to Get Sleep.

Herndon and Pangborn resolved to have a few hours' sleep before continuing their flight and they went to a hotel here immediately after safely stowing away their plane for the night.

They said they sighted the coast of Ireland about 3 o'clock this afternoon and continued flying eastward, but the fog prevented adequate observation and it was only after they had cruised over the Irish Sea for some time that they were able to find a landing place on the Welsh coast.

Both were tired after their long flight, but asked to be called at dawn to resume their journey.

When they landed in the farmer's field fliers' first question was "Well, just exactly where are we?" The question was directed to farm hands who came running to the plane.

The farmer and his wife got a "real surprise," Pangborn said. He said they did not have the slightest idea who the fliers were and could hardly be-

LLOYD GEORGE'S AGE MAY SLOW RECOVERY

Operation Success, but Outcome Uncertain in View of Doctors' Report.

London, July 29 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, Great Britain's wartime prime minister, was reported today to be holding his own, after an operation for a kidney ailment, although the outcome was not considered at all certain because of the age of the veteran statesman.

An official statement issued at 8 p. m. said:

"So far Mr. Lloyd George's condition continues satisfactory."

The words "so far" were interpreted by some observers to mean that the attending physicians apparently were conservatively qualifying their statement.

The operation was an emergency one. The former premier was attended by the king's own physician, Lord Dawson of Penn, and others of the most famous surgeons in England. They pronounced the operation successful.

Just before taking the anesthetic Lloyd George dictated a note to the Liberal summer school which opens at Cambridge Thursday, saying he regretted he was unable to attend and had arranged for his daughter, Miss Megan Lloyd George, to take his place. He also dictated a personal note to his daughter which she will read at the opening of the summer school.

King George, Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and other members of the royal family sent messages of sympathy today to the former premier and a number of letters, cablegrams and telephone calls were received from all parts of the empire expressing sympathy, esteem and affection.

Lisbon to Transfer Legation Charge

Augusto Mendes Leal Has Been on Duty Here Since 1923.

Lisbon, July 29 (A.P.).—Augusto Mendes Leal, First Secretary of the Portuguese Legation at Washington, is to be transferred to the political department at the foreign office here, it was announced today.

Augusto Mendes Leal, who has been recalled to Portugal, came to Washington September 12, 1923, as secretary of the Portuguese Legation. He has been acting as first secretary and charge d'affairs during the absence of Viscount d'Alte.

During their eight years in Washington the Secretary and Mme. Leal have played a prominent part in the social life of the diplomatic set.

LINDBERGH AND WIFE LEAVE AGAIN TODAY

Will Hop for Ottawa After Visit to Maine Home of Morrows.

North Haven, Me., July 29 (A.P.).—The flying Lindberghs tonight were at the summer home here of United States Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, parents of Mrs. Lindbergh, for their last visit with their 13-months-old son before continuing their vacation trip to the Orient.

Col. Lindbergh set the pontoon-equipped plane in the thoroughfare dividing the islands of Vinal Haven and North Haven at 3:20 p. m. (E. S. T.) after a flight of 2 hours and 30 minutes from North Beach, N. Y. While the colonel at first set no time for a hop-off from here, and indicated they might stop for several days he announced later that he hoped to take off for Ottawa shortly before noon tomorrow.

A few minutes before landing he had sped twice over the Morrow estate, bringing the Morrow family and the Lindbergh baby out of the house and down the grassy runway which was built especially for him two years ago when he visited the Morrows a few weeks before his marriage. He then shot across the island and landed on the Vinal Haven side of the thoroughfare, where the plane was made fast to a yacht mooring.

It was two hours before the Mouette, Lindbergh's yacht, in which the couple spent their honeymoon two years ago cruising along the coast, brought them to the yacht club landing here.

Senator and Mrs. Morrow, their youngest daughter, Constance, and a few friends had gone out to the plane in the yacht some time before.

Col. Lindbergh said the flight from New York was uneventful, and that although the radio which delayed their start from New York had apparently functioned well, they might make a few tests with it tomorrow morning.

He explained he had not planned to alight on the Morrow estate, as with the heavy load of gasoline which he expected to have when leaving here, he would need the longer water

Employment Insurance Becomes Law in Britain

London, July 29 (A.P.).—The unemployment insurance bill sponsored by the MacDonald government became law tonight when the remaining stages of the measure were passed by the House of Lords. It had already been given final reading in the House of Commons.

The bill, drawn up following the interim report of the royal commission on the "dole," was designed to correct certain alleged abuses in the distribution of unemployment insurance money.

Al Capone to Quit Racket, He Says on Eve of Prison

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

Chicago, July 29 (U.P.).—Al Capone said tonight that he was going "to quit the racket."

"I am going to take my medicine," he said. "And then, when I get out of prison I'm through. I want the peace and quiet of family life."

As he talked of the prison sentence that awaits him in Federal court tomorrow on his plea of guilty to charges of evading income taxes and breaking the prohibition law, public enemy No. 1 perspired freely and admitted that he was nervous.

"I feel wonderful," he said, "but nervous."

He wiped his sloping brown forehead with a towel and smoothed the scanty hair over his bald spot.

The interview took place in Capone's stronghold at the Lexington Hotel on South Michigan avenue. He was wearing a polo shirt and a shapeless pair of brown trousers. His sur-lieve they had come from the United States.

"All the way across the flying was most difficult," Pangborn said. "We could not escape from the fog. We didn't see a thing because of fog from the time we left Newfoundland until we sighted Ireland.

"It was entirely owing to the fog that we had to land. We knew, roughly, where we were and for hours we cruised over the sea trying to find a way through. We landed in a field on a farm and gave the farmer and his wife a real surprise.

"We apologized for landing in their field, but they said it was quite all right. They made much of us when they became convinced who we were.

"Our landing was perfect, and the plane is absolutely all right."

As news of the landing spread about the countryside, farmers for miles around hurried to the scene. The fliers said they would continue their flight to Croyden, near London, when they woke up.

The hotel was soon flooded with telephone calls as the news of the fliers' arrival was flashed about the country.

Only skillful handling, it was said, enabled them to bring the ship down on the hillside field without damage.

Boardman, Polando Unreported.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—More than 40 hours since the New York-Istanbul fliers, Russell Boardman and John Polando, took off on their flight across the Atlantic, no definite word from them had been received at their New York headquarters or elsewhere up until midnight tonight.

The fliers left here at dawn yesterday, almost at the same time as the red monoplane flown by Hugh Herndon, jr., and Clyde Pangborn took off on the flight which landed them in a farmer's field near Cardigan, Wales, this afternoon.

While grave doubt was expressed here over their fate their backers were still hopeful. The plane carried a large supply of fuel, it was pointed out, and there was the possibility the fliers might have landed in some remote spot from which communication with the outside world would be difficult and slow.

It was assumed they had to fight the same heavy fogs which kept Herndon and Pangborn from getting a glimpse of the earth from the time they left Newfoundland until they sighted the coast of Ireland.

Vienna, July 29 (U.P.).—Police throughout Austria were instructed to watch tonight for the Boardman-Polando plane en route from New York to Istanbul, but there was no report of the ship here.

stretch which the thoroughfare would give.

Col. Lindbergh was attired in a gray business suit, while Mrs. Lindbergh wore riding breeches and a leather coat. They were greeted by a few friends of the Morrows as they left the yacht, and Col. Lindbergh then picked up a large bundle wrapped in a blanket, and Mrs. Lindbergh carried a large envelope of charts, maps and flying data. They entered a small beach wagon, and with the Morrows were driven by Constance the few miles to the Morrow home.

notified police. A boat from the Harbor Precinct responded and took it to the morgue.

Backensto retired from a position with the War Department early last fall shortly after the death of his wife.

Ryan, only relative of Backensto in the city, said that the dead man had been in apparent good spirits recently. He said he knew of no reason why any one would wish to kill his aged relative and said that he did not believe Backensto had money on his person when he went for a walk Tuesday.

Backensto was a native of Colorado. He came here in 1917 from San Francisco, having been assigned to do statistical work in connection with troop mobilization and transportation.

Besides Ryan, Backensto is survived by two brothers and several nieces and nephews, all of whom live in the Far West. He had no children.

10-Day-Old Baby Is Found in Truck

Police Seek Abandoner of Infant, Tentatively "Mary Lou."

There was a new face in the infant's ward at Children's Hospital yesterday. It was that of a 10-day-old girl baby found sobbing out her woes in a truck near the Holmes Bakery, 600 New Jersey avenue northwest, early in the morning.

Police took the child to the institution, where it was said to be apparently in sound shape despite exposure and small aviordupois—only a few ounces over 4 pounds. When found by a Negro employe of the bakery the baby was wrapped in a faded but clean pink blanket and was dressed in inexpensive, though suitable, clothes.

The name of Mary Louise Galvin was selected for the infant, and nurses at the hospital have already begun to call her "Mary Lou." The opinion was expressed that the baby had been adequately cared for up to a few hours before her abandonment.

Police were conducting an investigation last night in an attempt to locate the person who left the child in the truck.

AMBASSADOR TO U.S. FROM CHILE RESIGNS

Davila Is Advised of Action Following Ouster of President Ibanez.

Santiago, Chile, July 29 (U.P.).—The government today accepted the resignation of sr. Don Carlos G. Davila, Ambassador to the United States. Sr. Davila had left the United States for Chile on leave before President Carlos Ibanez was forced from office. He was advised of the change in government while en route.

(Associated Press.)

The American Government has decided upon a hands-off policy in the Latin-American economic situation.

High administration officials well acquainted with the financial problems of the various Latin-American countries said last night the whole situation was being watched closely. The Washington Government, however, has decided it can not participate actively, it was said.

Some Latin-American countries have approached New York private bankers with a view to credit extensions to tide them over the present period. The bankers, in turn, asked the informal opinion of the administration. The State Department was said to be willing to furnish the bankers with all of their available reports from the countries concerned, but to have decided to reserve judgment on the merits of the individual requests.

The department has adopted the general attitude that the problem was essentially a banking one. The constant reports received by the department from its diplomatic and consular agencies indicated yesterday that three Latin-American countries were either in active default or suspension of service on loans held in the United States to the extent of $414,500,000.

The countries are Peru, Bolivia and Chile. The first two are in active default while Chile has suspended service on its issues.

The bankers declined about a month ago to go to the rescue of Chile.

When President Hoover was engaged in relief for Germany and Austria recently, he was in constant touch with New York bankers. The bankers' response to the move was whole-hearted. With regard to Latin America, however, officials said bankers felt the financial situation there was not always considered sufficiently stable to warrant speedy participation without careful study.

Officials said they were at a loss to know what definite action could be taken to relieve the financial situation in Latin America. They expressed unofficial opinions the whole subject would be taken up at the fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference here in October.

U. S. Investigates Alleged Cuban Plot

Orders New York Agents to Study Seizure of Arms There.

(Associated Press.)

The Justice Department said yesterday that orders had been sent to Federal agents in New York to "carry through" the investigation of a reported plot to stage a revolution in Cuba.

Officials said agents of the Bureau of Investigation had been asked to act after New York police had arrested Jorge de Zaldo for possession of a trunk containing medical supplies and weapons apparently intended for Cuba.

Although De Zaldo is now on bail on a State charge of transporting concealed weapons, Justice officials said Federal agents could act in the case under the neutrality laws and would attempt to determine if others are connected with the suspected plot.

Assassination Attempt Laid to Mexican Clerics

Mexico City, July 29 (U.P.).—"High clerics" were accused of being responsible for his attempted assassination last Saturday by Gov. Adalberto Tejeda, of Vera Cruz, in telegrams to congressmen here today.

"We have been able to confirm," the governor wired, "that the plot to assassinate me was laid by high clerical circles in Mexico City, whence the assassin was sent (to Jalapa) by way of Vera Cruz."

U. S. Treaty Nullified By Haitien Legislature

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 29 (U.P.).—The resolution declaring the Haiti-United States treaty null has now been passed by both houses of the Legislature and placed before President Stenio Vincent.

The treaty provides for supervision of the Haitien government departments by United States experts, and expires in 1936.

Prominent Argentines Sail After Expulsion

Buenos Aires, July 29 (U.P.).—Several prominent Argentines, opponents of the provisional government of Jose Uriburu, sailed into exile today aboard the Royal Mail Liner Alcantara after being expelled for plotting against the government.

MURRAY PLANS WAR TO CUT BREAD PRICE

which Murray has caused consternation among Oklahomans in the last few weeks. Here are some of the others:

1. A threat to shut down all flush oil fields in Oklahoma, to be enforced by State troopers, unless the price of crude oil reaches $1 a barrel by Saturday.

2. A fight with the administration of the University of Oklahoma Medical School, brought on when Murray ordered that a chiropractor be allowed to treat a patient in the school hospital.

3. The Red River Bridge war, which still simmered days after the free bridge across the River at Durant had been opened.

4. A move to force lower tolls over the pay span between Lexington and Purcell over the Canadian River—the last toll bridge in the State, soon to be replaced by a free bridge.

5. A campaign to force lower telephone rates throughout the State.

Conferences in Europe Revive Old Greek Ideas

By JOHN J. DALY

LIFE amongst statesmen of Europe these days has become just one conference after another.

Close observers of the conference just coming to a close in Berlin remark about the informality of it all, the speed of deliberation, with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the prime minister of England, hopping across the channel in a high-powered plane, dropping in on his conference as a neighbor comes to sit on another's back porch.

It is so different from and in striking contrast to the last official visit of a British premier to Berlin half a century ago, when Disraeli played his historic role at the conference of 1878. Bismarck dominated that meeting of minds, and the stiff formality of another century lent color if not consulting power to the deliberations. The delegates all wore gold braid.

Ramsay MacDonald, in his Scotch plaids, and with a briar pipe in his mouth, may come nearer to accomplishment than many a man in full regalia who looks impressive so long as he keeps his mouth closed, but who, rattling his saber and delivering an opinion, ofttimes falls lower than the humblest men. Those who hold the world in their hands must be giants. Otherwise, they merit the reproof given by the celebrated Greek painter, Apelles, to the magistrate, who stood in the studio a great while without speaking a word, and at last began to boast of his own skill as a painter:

"Whilst thou wast silent," said Apelles, "thou seemedst to be some extraordinary person, by reason of the chain and rich habit, but now that we have heard thee speak, there is not the meanest boy in my shop that does not despise thee!"

* * * *

CONFERENCE is an old Athenian art, revived and until recently monopolized by American business men. It is now becoming the great indoor sport in Europe. The German crisis brought about its popularity, furthered by Mr. Hoover's call for a moratorium. Since that memorable day in June last conferences have been held all over Europe, except in Russia, and more are on the way.

When Ramsay returns to England, the Germans who were conferring with the British premier will go down to Rome to hold a conference with Mussolini. After Mr. Mussolini tells them what he thinks ought to be done, there may be a conference in Spain, whose statesmen already are conferring over the destiny of that country.

This is the way the world reached its present point of perfection through conference. Out of the inextricable labyrinths of restless imaginations men have brought order. The great example of it all is in the movie industry at Hollywood. There the conference itself was brought to a high state of perfection.

Unfortunately, a handicap of the conference idea developed with the birth of the "yes men," a strange race of people who kowtowed to the great and mighty, and thus degraded the art of reconciling opinion until it nearly approached a state of sterile mediocrity. In the olden days, the NO Men were important at all conferences; for that is the nature of the conference—to debate and discuss, to pick up and analyze, to mull over questions, to get together for the purpose of solving problems—and problems are problems the world over.

In the European conferences no one knows just who are the Yes Men and the No Men, but they are there, none the less, and equally divided. It might be taken readily for granted that Mr. Mussolini is nobody's Yes Man, nor is Ramsay MacDonald—and these two have yet to meet in conference; but, by the process of peripatetic conferences, which takes the statesmen from London to Berlin to Paris to Rome to Madrid, and back again, it is inevitable that some day these superintelligences shall meet in conference; that Mussolini, the Iron Man of Italy, will meet MacDonald, the Steel Man of Great Britain—and when that conference is staged the world will hear of its reverberations all down the ages; the conference of conferences.

* * * *

CATO it was who claimed that the most fruitful and natural exercise of the mind is conference—and the old Greek and Roman civilizations went in strong for conferences. It got to be a lost art, somewhere along in the Middle Ages, when men became involved in a hundred years' war, or so; but with the discovery of America the conference came into its own. So that nowadays any one trying to reach a big business man in his office is told, perforce, that this can not be done; that the giant is in conference. It may be, of course, that he is holding conference with another big business man on a golf course; but he is, to all intents and purposes, in conference.

The game has now spread to Europe and is sweeping like wildfire over the tormented soils of at least seven countries. Soon it will reach Russia, and the powers that be will be rushing into Moscow to hold a conference. In a way it's like a mania, for men learn by conferring the one with the other, and as with men, so with nations. An old Athenian custom thus comes into its own.

Of course, there is another side to these ponderous potherations, and that is the note of conviviality summed up in the lines of the famous old song, "For it's always fair weather when good fellows get together."

AL CAPONE TO QUIT RACKET, HE SAYS ON EVE OF PRISON

roundings were dingy in contrast to the splendors in which legend pictured the famous Capone "throne room."

"What's your reason for quitting the racket?" he was asked.

"Well," he replied, "one of the reasons is my little son, Al. He is just recovering from an operation."

"Do you think crime will end in Chicago when you go to jail?"

Capone laughed. Then he said:

"If the United States Government thinks it can clean up Chicago by sending me to jail, well, it's all right with me. I guess maybe I owe the Government the stretch in jail anyway.

"So when I leave this hotel ("Scarface" glanced around his dingy room) it's my good-by to the racket. When I say I'm through I mean I'm through!"

He banged a pudgy hand on a battered table. On it stood an ancient typewriter, which contained a sheet of paper upon which a sentence or two had been written in Italian.

"Just a farewell note," he explained, still attempting to remove with his damp towel the perspiration which continued to trickle down his triple chins.

"But there's one thing," he continued, "I'll certainly try to beat this three-year rap my brother Ralph got on those income tax charges. Both of us simply can't be in prison at once.

"Somebody's got to stay at home with my mother and family, my wife, my son and our two young brothers. So while I'm in jail I hope Ralph will be here in Chicago taking care of them all and seeing that the boys get good educations."

Capone said he had been approached with all manner of movie and literary propositions, that he'd been pestered the last few years by one promotional agent after another.

"Why," he said, "I've been offered so much money for my memoirs that the figures look ridiculous. But, honestly, they're well over $2,000,000. I have my own troubles, though, and I'm not going to turn writer. That's your job."

"Scarface" said that he regretted leaving Chicago; said he had enjoyed life here as much as it is possible for a man who fears constantly a shot in the back. He evinced pride in the city which has borne the brunt of all his crimes by closing the interview thus:

"I've never seen a world's fair, and I won't get to see ours, because I'll be behind the bars. But for Chicago's coming world's fair I hope a huge success."

He rubbed his face again with the towel, which by now was soaking wet. Then he ushered his interviewer out of room 430 at the Lexington, a room which "Scarface" found much too hot for comfort.

"I'll see you in court tomorrow," he shouted. "Here's hoping it'll be cooler then."

Navy Yard Worker Hit by Speedboat

John McGinn Dives, but Fails to Dodge Craft Near Dock.

John McGinn, 54-year-old rigger at the Navy Yard, was seriously injured last night when struck by a speedboat while swimming in the Eastern Branch. The accident occurred near the dock of the Eastern Powerboat Club which is at Thirteenth and Water streets southeast.

Police reported that William Strabue, a member of the club and resident of Congress Heights, was piloting the speedboat. In the darkness and driving rain he was unable to see the swimmer in the boat's path, he said. What he thought was a piece of paper bobbing on the surface was Mr. McGinn's head. He nas gray hair.

In attempting to maneuver out of danger, the Navy Yard worker dived, only to come up under the boat and strike his head against the propeller. Taken to Providence Hospital by Mr. Strabue, he was treated for a fracture of the skull and multiple lacerations of the head and back.

Bishop Cannon Favors McAdoo.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, tonight said the only hope of Democratic success in the next presidential election is William Gibbs McAdoo.

Mrs. McCormick Dead in Virginia

Member of Prominent Family to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., July 29.—The funeral of Mrs. Esther Lewis McCormick, who died from heart trouble at her home in South Church street last night, will be held at Grace Episcopal Church Friday, the Rev. Dr. Louis Tucker, rector, officiating. Interment will be in the family lot in Greenhill Cemetery.

Mrs. McCormick, aged seventy-five years, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Lewis of Monterey and great-granddaughter of Nellie Custis of Audley. Her health had been failing for some years. She is survived by her husband and two children, Miss Emily Conte McCormick, who makes her home with her parents, and Edward McCormick, of New York. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ella White, of New York, and Mrs. Edwin A. Stevens, of Bedminster, N. J., and one brother, R. E. L. Lewis, of Avon-by-the-sea, N. J.

Former Rail Official Dead.

Trenton, N. J., July 29 (U.P.).—Martin J. Caples, of Norfolk, Va., a former vice president of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, died at Mercer Hospital late tonight from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound.

REICH WILL DEPEND ON OWN RESOURCES

Holland Is Only Nation to Delay an Extension of Present Loans.

Berlin, July 29 (A.P.).—As the first step in keeping in Germany the foreign credits already there, the German government has officially designated Hermann Schmitz, managing director of the German Die Trust, and Caari Melchior, a delegate to the 1929 Young plan conference, as its representatives in the bankers' discussions recommended by the seven-power conference in London.

While these negotiations are going on the cabinet continues its extraordinary sessions and the country at large appears to have adopted the attitude that Germany will see it through on her own resources.

The visits by Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald have heartened the whole nation and all hands are turning to with a determination to show that the visiting statesmen have not misplaced their faith in Germany.

Until Chancellor Bruening came back from his visits to Paris and London there was still some hope that new foreign loans might be in sight, but the chancellor has made it clear that through the months to come the country must show the world that she is doing all she can to profit by the respite allowed under the Hoover moratorium.

Marcus Wallenberg, a Swedish banker, and Oliver M. Sprague, American adviser to the Bank of England, are in Berlin now making a general survey of the situation and giving the government the benefit of their advise through its unofficial representatives.

It is understood that they are urging, among other things, that all the German banks tie up together along the lines of the American clearing house system and that foreign creditor banks likewise form a sort of clearing house.

In addition to Wallenberg and Sprague, some of the large financial institutions have representatives permanently stationed here. These include James H. Gannon, of the Chase National Bank, and Frank C. Tiarks, of J. Henry Schroeder, of London.

It is reported that the London banks already have indicated their willingness to leave their expiring credits in Germany. The United States, Switzerland and Sweden also are favorable, but the Dutch thus far have remained noncommital.

Beyond this there are other signs that Germany is trying to help herself.

The national federation of German industries met here today to consider practical application of the offer by more than 1,000 industrial and banking firms to support any move to hold on to the short-term credits. On every hand there appeared to be a readiness to stand behind the government.

The chambers of commerce and industry of the Ruhr Valley issued an appeal at Essen today urging the people to make every effort to rebuild confidence in the country.

(Associated Press.)

H. L. Groves, commercial attache at Berlin, yesterday notified the Commerce Department that a German federal decree had been issued requiring all persons to report the amount of debts owed abroad in excess of 50,000 marks.

Groves cabled the information without comment.

Officials of the department said the German government and banks apparently wanted to know the full extent of pressure likely to be put on German finances from the outside.

Teacher Charged With Check Fraud

Jeweler Accuses Woman Freed in Baltimore; Associate Jailed.

Police late yesterday charged Genevieve Firel, described as a school teacher, with false pretenses a few hours after she was brought to Washington from a Baltimore courtroom, where she was acquitted of eleven bad check charges brought against her and Hugh Dosher. The latter was found guilty and sentenced to serve six years for each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

The couple were arrested in Baltimore three weeks ago, following numerous complaints by merchants. Mrs. Firel's companion, a stationary engineer, also is wanted here to face charges after he serves the six-year term.

A downtown jewelry store was complainant against the woman in the charge filed against her yesterday. Eight other cases, involving approximately $300, are pending, according to police. Mrs. Firel is 25 years old and gives Philadelphia as her home city.

RAIN CUTS MERCURY AFTER NEAR RECORD

taken to Emergency Hospital, not serious.

(Associated Press.)

Heat reigned again yesterday over the West, Central and Eastern States and in its train were death, suffering, and destruction from pests and fire.

The blazing skies promised no immediate respite in most areas, although some sections—the Northern Plains, the extreme Missouri Valley, the northern portion of the upper Great Lakes region and California—felt cooling winds and rains.

Eighty deaths were attributed to the burning temperatures during the week, most of them in California's Imperial Valley, where the mercury soared to 120 degrees, before dropping Wednesday; seventeen were in the Salt River Valley of Arizona and two more in Iowa.

Forest fires in Montana and northern Idaho burned on and the drought started corn firing in northern Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas and Missouri. Other sections were threatened with the same condition unless rains arrive. California was relieved by cool ocean currents and further drops in temperatures were predicted. Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota and North Dakota were cooler. At Wishek, N. Dak., which had a high of 104 Monday, a temperature of 37 was registered early Wednesday. A 12-mile an hour wind off Lake Michigan fanned Chicago and ended the heat wave there. Northern Ohio relaxed under a 10-degree drop and rains were impending.

P. U. C. STILL WAITS END OF TAXI FIGHT

Decides Not to Act in Row, Expected to Close by First of Week.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech again expressed confidence yesterday afternoon that the taxicab rate war would end the first of next week, if not on Saturday, after a lengthy conference with Harry C. Davis, general manager of the Diamond Cab Co., the largest independent concern that has not entered into an agreement to stabilize fares and zones.

The Public Utilities Commission, after hearing Mr. Keech's report on the meeting of about 50 taxicab operators Tuesday afternoon, decided to maintain its watchful-waiting policy. Directors of the Diamond Cab Co. are scheduled to meet Monday to decide whether or not to join the truce or to adhere to the 20-40-60-cent rate.

Should the Diamond Cab operators agree to the new schedule, the war will practically be at an end, even though a scattering of taxicab men retain their low rates. The Protex-U Co., which has engaged actively in the price-slashing, has also stayed out of the peace negotiations, but it has a limited number of cabs.

The rates agreed upon by the 50-odd operators are scheduled to go into effect on Saturday. They will be within the minimum of 25-50-75 cents, and the maximum of 35-60-85 cents. Even though the Diamond cabs continue to charge only 20, 40 and 60 cents for Saturday and Sunday, it is not believed that hostilities will be resumed unless the Diamond directors vote to remain aloof.

While Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, is scheduled to begin his vacation Monday, the utilities body stands ready to take a hand in establishing fair rates if the fight starts again. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride has not submitted an opinion yet as to the extent of the commission's authority in regulating taxicabs, but it is generally conceded that it is sufficient to establish rates.

Woman Hurt as Auto Stops to Avert Crash

Mrs. Mae Bennett, 30 years old, of 5425 Connecticut avenue, suffered a possible skull fracture and scalp lacerations last night when the automobile in which she was riding stopped suddenly to avert a crash with another car at Sixteenth street and Kalmia road. She was taken to Walter Reed Hospital.

Thirteenth Precinct police reported that Mrs. Eleanor C. Reid, of Chevy Chase, Md., was driving the car in which Mrs. Bennett was a passenger. Too quick application of the brakes threw the injured woman against the windshield, shattering it.

Cohan Presents to Hoover Song on George Washington

New Bicentennial Music Hailed as Greater Than "Over There."

The first copy of a song written especially for the George Washington Bicentennial Commission was presented to President Hoover yesterday by its author, George M. Cohan, noted song writer and theatrical producer.

Mr. Cohan was accompanied on his call at the White House by Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the commission.

The title of the new song is "Father of the Land We Love," and some critics predict for it an even greater success than Mr. Cohan's hit, "Over There." Representative Bloom predicted that the song will become one of the most popular ever known in the United States. Music has been arranged by the Marine Band Orchestra.

"This new song has been written for the American people," Mr. Cohan said, "and I have donated it to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission as my contribution to the great celebration in honor of George Washington on the 200th anniversary of his birth."

The song has been copyrighted, but will not be sold, Mr. Bloom announced. The bicentennial commission will see to its distribution in the schools, clubs and organizations throughout the country. Words of the song are:

First Verse.

Every little lad and lass,
Boys and girls of every class,
Here beneath the flag of stripe and star.
From the time they start to school,
When they learn the golden rule,
Always have been proud of what they are.
And every day with lessons done,
They sing their song of Washington,
A song of love that reaches near and far.

(Chorus.)

Second Verse.

When to manhood comes the youth,
With the knowledge and the truth,
Of the Revolutionary fray.
Proud he is to be a son
Of Immortal Washington
Sacred is the memory of his day.
Whenever drums begin to roll,
Within the Nation's heart and soul,
A patriotic something seems to say:

Chorus.

First in war,
First in peace,
First in the hearts of his countrymen.
That is the story of Washington,
That is the glory of Washington,
His spirit is here.
His spirit is here.
He's standing, commanding above.
In word and deed we follow the lead
Of the Father of the land we love.

Representatives of six trunk line railroads yesterday pledged their cooperation with the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Representatives of the railroads met with A. K. Shipe, chairman of the District commission's "hospitality committee." They said that special low rates will be instituted and agreed to run special excursion trains to Washington during the observance when visitors can not be comfortably accommodated by regular passenger trains.

They also told Mr. Shipe plans for a national campaign of railroad advertising for the bicentennial, which will begin in the fall.

Railroads represented at the conference with Mr. Shipe were the Southern, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, the Seaboard Airline, Chesapeake & Ohio and the Atlantic Coast Line. The Washington Steamboat Co. was represented also and agreed to cooperate with the railroads and the District Bicentennial Commission.

The District commission also announced yesterday that an original play, based on the life of George Washington, would be performed in Washington next year. Arnold Kruckman, of the District commission, said two American dramatists had advised him of their intention of writing Washington dramas.

Charlton Andrews, New York playwright, author of "The Golden Age" and other successes, is coming here next week to consult with the District commission on the Washington play.

Paul Keeter, of Virginia, author of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," has advised Mr. Kruckman that he is making studies for a vivid Washington drama.

COLORED TEACHERS HEAR RACE LEADERS

Closer Contact of College Graduates and Masses Is Advocated.

The National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools was addressed last night in the auditorium of the Miner Teachers' College by R. R. Wright, of Philadelphia, a former teacher who, at the age of 65, retired, and has organized and developed the Citizens Savings & Trust Co. in the last 12 years.

He advocated closer contact of colored men and women with college degrees with the masses of their race and pointed out business opportunities awaiting their leadership.

Fannie C. Williams, president of the association, commended appointment of Dr. Ambrose Caliver as specialist in Negro education in the office of education of the Department of the Interior, and illustrated how surveys he is making in elementary and high school education may be utilized by colored school officials in developing equal educational opportunity throughout the Nation.

She also illustrated how the work of the White House Conference on Child Welfare might be integrated with plans and purposes of the association in expansion of courses of study in Negro educational institutions.

Closer relation of the association to work of colored State agents was advocated by her, with special reference to diversification of educational courses to include trades and vocations of modern significance to the Negro.

An illustration of the educational possibilities of the George Washington bicentennial celebration here was presented by J. H. Hill. Films of the White House conference were shown at the conclusion of the meeting. W. T. B. Williams presided.

Sessions will continue today and tomorrow at Howard University and Miner Teachers' College, with trips to Arlington, Gettysburg, the Luray Caverns and by airplane over the city on the schedule, as well as numerous other features of entertainment at the university.

CORNWALLIS SCENE DECISION DELAYED

appreciate a depiction of Lee's surrender to Grant, and that portraying the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, in his opinion, was placing the wrong emphasis on the celebration. Having President Hoover at the celebration should be honor enough, he held.

An effort would be made to call his association together in August to vote on the surrender scene, Dr. Goodwin said.

The commission met yesterday in the offices of Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, its president. Senator Swanson is in Europe, but it was at his suggestion that the first move was made to cut the surrender scene from the Yorktown pageant.

His suggestion is understood to have followed a visit to the State Department. The State Department later denied it had made any suggestion "officially" regarding censorship of the pageant, but officials said that if someone made such a "suggestion" it was done on his own volition.

Some members of the commission held that to portray the army of Lord Cornwallis laying down its arms beside the banks of the James River, might offend the sensibilities of English visitors to the pageant.

One of the chief critics of this attitude is Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, which will stage a monster celebration in 1932.

Representative Bloom, informed yesterday of the Yorktown Commission's postponement decision, reiterated his announcement that only a direct order from some higher authority would induce him to cut the Cornwallis scene from various bicentennial pageants.

"Cornwallis surrendered didn't he? And we know how he surrendered, so I can see no reason for deleting the scene," he said.

Representative Bloom said that because the English were such excellent sportsmen, he felt that such a deletion of an important scene in history would be more of an insult to them than the direct portrayal of the surrender.

The GIRL About Town

AT last I have seen the perfect wife. She is Anne Lindbergh, whose present address is somewhere between North Haven, Me., and Tokyo. What fun we had at the Naval Air Station Tuesday watching this flying pair take off! Anne never argues with her distinguished aviator, just obeys orders and salutes. By the way, I heard some news about her. She has never written a line of poetry since she has been married. But why should she? Isn't she living the greatest poem in the world, high adventure with the one she loves? Here's luck to both of them!

Talking about matrimony, I saw Mabel Walker Willebrandt weeding in the garden of her Georgetown home yesterday. And what do you think? There's a huge solitaire on the engagement finger and in her eyes that far-away look. Some say the lucky man is a former official of the Department of Justice, others that he is an aviator. I am betting on the latter, for Mabel is certainly air-minded. She thinks nothing of an air hop to Los Angeles, that wide-open town where they served prewar stuff in pitchers all the time Mabel was drying up the rest of the country.

THERE is one thing certainly that a girl who wants to get on in Washington must know, and that is how to keep up with politics. I have always tried to do that. I remember that once when I sat next to Bill Donovan I told him that I thought it so much nicer to be in the little Cabinet than the big one—more exclusive, don't you know. It pleased Bill a lot, too.

Got a letter from Mary Borah yesterday, and she is hobnobbing with the Democrats again. What a good time Molly Ansberry and she are having talking over old times! Will you ever forget that dinner at Dower House, when Mrs. Borah was the only Republican guest amid a crowd of Democratic women? The table talk was all about Democratic wonders. Mrs. Borah stood it as long as she could. Then when a rift came in the conversational barrage she dashed in and eulogized the Republican party until the other guests saw the point and joined in the hearty laugh with which she finally surrendered the floor.

REAPER CENTENNIAL MARKED BY PAGEANT

Virginians Honor Farm Boy Who Invented Machine 100 Years Ago.

Blacksburg, Va., July 29 (A.P.).—A pageant depicting the history of the reaper invented by Cyrus Hall McCormick tonight brought to a conclusion a day of celebration during which nearly 3,000 registered members of the Institute of Rural Affairs and the Virginia Homemakers Association and a large number of additional guests participated.

The centennial of the invention of the reaper was observed with a luncheon attended by 500 guests this noon, as well as by the pageant tonight. Harold McCormick, son of the inventor, and Cyrus McCormick, jr., and Fowler McCormick, grandsons, were among the guests at the luncheon and a telegram was read in which Mrs. Anita Blaine, of Santa Barbara, Calif., daughter of the inventor, expressed her regret at inability to attend.

Gov. Pollard and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd were unable to attend, but J. Sinclair Brown, of Salmen, speaker of the House of Delegates, represented the State, and the principal address was given by former Gov. E. Lee Trinkle, of Roanoke.

Mr. Trinkle praised the contribution made by McCormick to the world's welfare and characterized the invention of the reaper as "the romance of the emancipation of farm labor." He said that in 1831, when McCormick first made the reaper in his Rockbridge County workshop and tried it out in Augusta County, nearby, 80 per cent of the Nation's population was engaged in farming; whereas today less than 25 per cent is engaged in that pursuit, but there still is no fear of the famines which were a constant source of terror before the day of the reaper.

A contrast between harvesting methods a century ago and today was drawn by Cyrus McCormick, jr.

Alexander Legge, until recently chairman of the Federal Farm Board, in a radio address delivered at noon, which he expanded later in the day, said the outlook for agriculture at present is brighter than that for any other basic industry. He based his opinion, he said, on the fact that "the long-promised home market for our farm products has at last arrived. Under normal business conditions our own people can consume practically all of the products of our farms lands that are really capable of being farmed at a profit."

The pageant tonight was written especially for the celebration by H. A. Keller, who has devoted several years to a study of the life of Cyrus McCormick.

Pittsburgh Acclaims Post and Gatty Visit

Pittsburgh Pa., July 29 (A.P.).—The round-the-world fliers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, came to Pittsburgh today and were greeted by throngs of citizens.

The fliers landed at Bettis Field, McKeesport, and later they were taken over the principal downtown streets of Pittsburgh in an automobile. An official welcome was extended by Mayor Charles H. Kline on the steps of the City-County building. During the afternoon Post and Gatty visited a number of hospitals and orphan homes.

Ensign Ends Life Aboard Warship

West Virginian Directs Burial of His Body in Chinese Waters.

(Associated Press.)

Ensign Claude M. Harris, Crumpler, W. Va., was reported to the Navy Department to have committed suicide with a pistol yesterday on board the destroyer tender Black Hawk, anchored at Chefoo, China.

Harris left a will requesting that he be buried at sea in Chinese waters. The dispatch reporting his death was signed by Capt. W. H. Lassing, commander of the Black Hawk. The department notified his mother, Mrs. Ida Bell Harris, asking her to notify the department what disposition she wants made of the body.

Harris was born in Sanville, Va., September 13, 1905, and was appointed to the Naval Academy from the enlisted personnel in 1924, graduating in 1928.

X-Ray Treatment For Cancer Urged

Americans Make Pleas at Third World Parley in Paris.

Paris, July 29 (A.P.).—Americans at the Third International Congress on Radiology were leading a lone movement today for recognition of the development of high voltage X-ray treatment for cancer in an effort to arrive at comprehensive results.

They had counted on a lively discussion of this subject, but the absence of all except a few Germans deprived them of support.

The possibility of producing electrically what would amount to synthetic radium has come in for discussion, chiefly around exhibits of radiological instruments on which the congress put in the afternoon. The Americans' contention was sustained individually by some American radiologists, who argued that the amount of radium in existence was too small ever to make possible a general cancer campaign and that hope lies principally in electricity.

2 Senators Eager To Debate Tariff

Dickinson and Harrison Say They Are Willing, but Neglect Details.

(United Press.)

Two leading tariff spokesmen yesterday expressed eagerness to meet in joint debate on merits of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, but nothing was said about arranging such a bout.

Senator L. J. Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, expressed willingness to argue the question. The challenge was made in a public statement by Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi.

The statements of both were circulated by their respective national committees, so maybe those organizations may seek to publicize the tariff issue by such a meeting.

3 PRISONERS STAB GUARD AND ESCAPE

Men in Boston Scale Wall by Means of Board; Steal Weapons.

Boston, July 29 (A.P.).—Three men serving long terms beat and stabbed a guard, stole a pistol and a rifle and escaped over a wall at the Massachusetts State Prison in the Charlestown district today.

Choosing a time when the activities at the prison had been slowed by a temperature of 97 degrees, Thomas Gilpatrick, Ernest A. Abbott and Hugh Quigley beat Guard John Hannon before climbing a board to the top of a wall. They then dropped into the yards of the Boston & Maine Railroad and ran.

The three had been mixing cement in the prison foundry yard. Hannon went to a telephone and while he was talking he was struck on the head with a blackjack and then stabbed in the neck. He attempted to stem the flight of the trio, but was beaten down. A 2-by-4 board with nails sticking out of it for use as steps was placed against the wall and the men climbed over to freedom.

The men were seen in Somerville shortly after their escape. Squads of police attempted to capture them after they were sighted in an automobile they had stolen, but were unsuccessful. State police were ordered to patrol the State highways leading from Somerville.

Ethel Barrymore Explains Odd Denver Performance

Actress Admits Being in Daze Playing Part of Lady Teazle.

ETHEL BARRYMORE.

Denver, Colo., July 29 (A.P.).—A murmur of surprise and conjecture which followed the opening performance of Ethel Barrymore in "The School for Scandal" here Monday had led today to publication of a front-page article signed by the famous actress in which she "explained" what critics called the "worst performance of her career."

Under the headline, "Ethel Barrymore Tells Own Tale of 'Worst Performance,'" the Star related that a curtain of darkness seemed to hover over her throughout the play and that her feeble attempt at an old-fashioned curtsy was caused by a strained ligament in her left leg.

In another story Kaspar Monahan, dramatic critic for the Rocky Mountain News, whose review was the most charitable of those published here, quoted prominent Denver first-nighters on their reaction to the performance, in which Miss Barrymore frequently forgot or mumbled her lines.

Admiration for the actress for carrying on under obvious difficulty was expressed by some. Others censured her and one suggested that his money be refunded.

Evening paper criticisms yesterday were outspoken in their censure. The Denver Post said:

"Miss Barrymore first amazed and then utterly shocked her hosts of Denver friends by a bizarre and unorthodox portrayal.

"Conjecture ran the gamut from altitude to serious illness, with most of the onlookers selecting neither of these as the explanation of the eminent Barrymore's all too obvious lapse from her usual majestic poise."

A. De Bernardi, jr., Post dramatic critic, commented that she took "the unusual liberty of making the historic Lady Teazle a more-than-slightly tipsy character" and "disappointed her large audience to the extent that it politely neglected to compel the star to make her customary curtain calls at the conclusion of the play."

Miss Barrymore, who played to a packed house again last night, said in her signed article "I was in a daze, but at the time I thought I could carry on through the play.

"No, I am certain that nothing I ate or drank previous to the performance was responsible for my dazed condition. * * *"

Rescuers Hold Hope For Entombed Miner

Minersville, Pa., July 29 (A.P.).—Members of a rescue party attempting to dig their way through a mass of rock and coal separating them from Stanley Kirinski, 45, entombed in the Lytle Mine of the Susquehanna Collieries Co. here since Monday night, said tonight they expected to reach the miner within several hours.

Communication with the trapped miner ceased late last night. It had been established by tapping on an iron pipe through the debris. It was believed Kirinski might have gone further back in the tunnel for better air, or that the pipe had broken.

Olympia, Wash., July 28 (U.P.).—Gov. Roland Hartley will be made a chief in the famous Quinault Indian tribe when he attends their annual celebration, August 26 and 27.

U. S. to Sue Wool Men For $40,000,000

Philadelphia, Pa., July 29 (U.P.).—Suits to recover approximately $40,000,000 from wool-importing firms in New York, Boston and Philadelphia will be instituted by the Government shortly, it was learned tonight at the district attorney's office.

An investigation of the alleged frauds has been going on secretly since April. For a time the Government seriously considered criminal action against the heads of the larger wool firms, and some cases got as far as the Federal grand jury. That course of action, however, has been put aside, and preparations for the civil suits made instead.

Paralysis Cases Increase.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The health department reported today that 54 new cases of infantile paralysis had been registered in Greater New York on Tuesday, making the total since the outbreak 517.

18 SHIP LINES LOWER PASSENGER CHARGES

All Classes of Fares Are Cut 10 to 30 Per Cent From August 17.

Paris, July 29 (A.P.).—Feeling the effect of a "new world" economic condition, North Atlantic Steamship Lines today agreed to reduce passenger rates in an effort to stimulate a lagging ocean travel.

First-class passenger rates on eighteen transatlantic lines will be cut 10 to 30 per cent, effective August 17, the North Atlantic Shipping Conference decided in its closing session.

Third-class fares are to be reduced by a basic 13 per cent, and supplementary charges are to be trimmed in the cabin, second and tourist classifications. Furthermore, the word "third" will be dropped in the future from the designation "tourist third."

It was also decided to cancel extra charges during the winter season. The new fares will be published on the dates the reduced rates, affecting all the principal Atlantic lines, go into effect.

"The effect of the present economic situation of the world on the steamship business is evident to all interested financially, or otherwise, in the problems of ocean transportation," said a communique issued by the conference.

"The lines heretofore met this downward tendency by adding improvements and attractions aboard ships and by the inauguration of cabin and tourist classes.

"A practical suspension of emigration to the United States and Canada further aggravated for the steamship companies the situation brought about by a general world depression."

The communique pointed out that the companies were taking a big step with the hope of stimulating travel.

"The full effect of President Hoover's proposal is still to be felt, but it may be stated with confidence that the world is being changed in consequence," the communique said. "It is the realization of this fact which alone led the conference to try to place the general structure of its rates in harmony with this new world." Freight rates were not discussed.

Pavlowa's New York Estate Is Tax Exempt

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The $381,587 estate left in New York by Anna Pavlowa, the dancer, who died in Holland last January, is exempt from taxation under the new decedent's estate tax law which went into effect last September, it was learned today with the filing of the transfer tax appraisal.

The dancer, in private life the wife of Victor Dande, of London, died a nonresident of the State.

BIG RAINS INCREASE CHINESE FLOOD TOLL

Crop Damage Causes Heavy Death List Next Winter to Be Expected.

Shanghai, July 29 (A.P.).—With hundreds, perhaps thousands, dead of floods in middle China, heavy rains continued today. Accurate estimates of casualties were impossible, as communications failed.

Crops are badly damaged over wide areas, causing predictions of heavy death tolls next fall and winter among 200,000,000 persons in the inundated region. Japanese warships landed 200 sailors at Hankow to aid in making fast the broken dykes against the Yangtse and Ham Rivers, which drowned several hundred Chinese in the district of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, and threatened to flood the Japanese section of Hankow.

The whole Yangtse valley is flooded from Ichang, 972 miles to the sea. The Yangtse and its many tributaries overflowed in Hunan, Hupeh, Anhwei and Kiangsu Provinces.

Nanking, Nationalist government capital, is partly under water and thousands are homeless. Officials were unable to send aid to scores of cities reporting flood disaster.

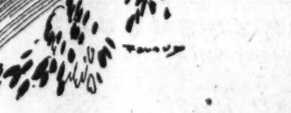
The Yangtse broke the dykes at Wuhu, covering a great area of Anhwei Province. Thousands took refuge within the walls of Wuhu. Starving mobs there looted rice from boats.

Dozens of steamers were unable to proceed up river from Shanghai, the Yangtse having swept over landmarks and submerged docks.

R. C. A. and Others Sued As Infringers of Patent

Wilmington, Del., July 29 (A.P.).—Patent suits were filed in the Federal District Court today by the Dubilier Condenser Corporation against the Radio Corporation of America, the National Union Radio Co. and the Perryman Electrical Co., Inc. The three concerns are charged with infringement of a patent for improvement to electron tube apparatus.

The apparatus is used to increase the efficiency of radio tubes which are used in sets operated by house current.



Grand Jury to Reopen Starr Faithfull Probe

Mineola, Long Island, July 29 (A.P.).—The Nassau County grand jury will reopen its inquiry into the death of Starr Faithfull, District Attorney Edwards announced today.

J. V. Waring, handwriting expert employed by the dead girl's stepfather to examine the so-called "suicide letters," found after the girl's body was discovered in the water at Long Beach last month, will be called to testify. Edwards has maintained the letters were genuine, while the stepfather declares the letters are forgeries.

Three Men Are Killed As Locomotive Explodes

Leesville, La., July 29 (U.P.).—Explosion of a locomotive engine at a logging camp near here had claimed the lives of three men tonight.

Hugh Jones, engineer, and Cap Webb, Negro fireman, were killed instantly when the engine blew up and Emmet Thomas died from burns several hours later. Webb's body was hurled 100 feet and torn to pieces. A fourth member of the crew, Tom Palmerg, was badly scalded.

Motor Travelers are Getting these Unusual Free Services at Conoco Stations

CONOCO STATIONS are caring for baggage and parcels while the touring motorist makes a temporary stop. They are caring for mail and telegrams; giving accurate information on facilities and rates of local hotels and camps; acquainting motor travelers with places to fish, hunt, swim and golf; aiding in the purchase of supplies and obtaining of automotive repairs; supplying dependable local road information . . . and numerous other friendly courtesy services.

All these things are services rendered by the field outposts of the Conoco Travel Bureau conducted by the Continental Oil Company in the interest of the motorists of America. They are services freely available to every motorist who takes a trip. The Conoco Travel Bureau is the foremost free national travel service for motorists. Its services are most complete; its scope is nation-wide. Its origin dates back to kerosene lamp days.

When you travel by motor, stop at Conoco stations, identified by the sign of the Red Triangle. You'll find each Conoco man eager to serve as "your well-informed friend." If your trip is still in the process of planning, write to the Conoco Travel Bureau headquarters, Denver, for marked road maps, detailed travel information and a Conoco Passport, which will identify you to Conoco men everywhere. If your time is too short for this, stop at the first Conoco station you see and have the man enroll you as a Passport holder and supply a Conoco windshield sticker and road maps. Then you will be traveling "the Conoco way"—entitled to all these special services.

LOWER LABOR COSTS MAY STOP PAY CUTS

Federal Officials Believe General Wage Reduction Will Be Avoided.

(United Press.)

Constantly falling labor costs in major manufacturing industries, in the opinion of officials here, can be relied upon to help check any widespread wage-cutting movement.

This continued decline in labor costs, a fundamental economic factor, with its correlated increase in the production of the individual worker, has not resulted from wage decreases; on the contrary, it has persisted through periods of rising wage scales and is caused primarily by improved methods of machine production. Officials in close touch with economic developments say they count upon a realization of this factor by employers to discourage wage cutting except in extreme emergencies.

U. S. Steel "Adjustment."

Further study of Tuesday's announcement that the United States Steel Corporation contemplates an "adjustment" of salaries left officials inclined yesterday to believe that this does not foreshadow any cut in the wages of per diem or piece work laborers in the steel mills. The opinion generally, was that the "adjustments," assumed to mean reductions, would be restricted to the employes working on weekly or monthly salaries, with those in the higher brackets bearing the heaviest cuts.

President Hoover, it is understood, does not regard a reduction affecting higher salaried employes as a matter of grave consequence generally. What he is anxious to avoid or prevent if possible is wholesale slashing of wage scales and consequent reduction of mass purchasing power. The major industries such as the railroads, packers, the electrical industry, and the automobile industry, are said to be in thorough accord with the President's views and determined to do all they can to maintain existing wage scales.

What Statistics Show.

A statistical picture of the general situation, based on Government data, was presented yesterday as follows:

From 1923 to 1929, both inclusive, the production index for manufacturing industries rose from 101 to 119, an increase of 18 per cent. During the same period the index of employment declined from 104.2 to 100.4 while the pay roll index figure rose from 103.4 to 107.2. In other words an 18 per cent increase in production was accomplished concurrently with a 3.8 per cent drop in the number of employes and with only a 3.8 per cent increase in pay roll expenditures.

The inference drawn from these figures in official quarters is that employers will take the attitude it is inadvisable to attempt to make additional economies at the expense of a production factor already declining, when they know also that such action would further depress industry through curtailment of purchasing power.

their shabby and stifling homes, had lazed in the street when the gunmen rolled through on their death errand.

"We have met a typical Sicilian reception in every move to trace the murderers," Mr. Mulrooney declared. "We've got to break their silence * * *."

The street was lined with its residents, he said, when the gangsters opened fire, dozens leaned from the windows, yet none would admit seeing or recognizing the car's occupants.

$15,000 in Rewards Posted.

While the police were conducting their search, two newspapers posted rewards totaling $15,000 for information leading to arrest and conviction of the killers. One (the American), offered $10,000, and another (the World-Telegram) offered $5,000.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Albany, commented that the incident was a "damnable outrage." The governor's comment expressed the opinion of seores of citizens who had communicated with the authorities asking that all possible steps be taken to bring the slayers to justice.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Most matrons will love this dress. It has that becoming neckline, so modish and slenderizing. The skirt too does its bit toward producing a slender appearance with its sharp diagonal seaming that gives a nice depth to the hipline.

It combines printed and plain crepe silk.

Style No. 828 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Printed voile is another dainty and cool summery suggestion.

HOOVER STUDIES JOB RELIEF

ment relief. It was divided into the following four groups:

Shortening hours of labor for all workers to avoid as much laying off as possible.

Every employer assuring employment to the minimum force needed from November to April. All industry, it was said, would benefit as the mental attitude of the worker would be better if he knew his job was assured. Creation of work through public employment in parks, on public buildings and roads where possible. Private work in homes and employment by welfare organizations.

The securing of funds for relief, both municipal and private.

Doak Lauds Shorter Hours.

Subsequently, Secretary of Labor Doak referred to Green's suggestion that workers' hours be shortened with the assertion that before he came into office he favored a 6-hour day and a 5-day week and that nothing had happened to change his mind. He added that since a 5½-day week had been started in Washington his department had functioned as efficiently and economically as when it worked on a 6-day basis.

David B. Robertson, chairman of a group representing organized railroad labor, said yesterday he felt that a shorter working week, without any decrease in pay, was a major means of combating unemployment.

He added that the railroad union officials at a three-day meeting, ended yesterday, discussed ways to bring about a reduction in the hours of labor. Unemployment generally and the national pension plan for railroad workers also were discussed, he said.

Seeks Public Charity.

Robertson asserted that there were several hundred thousand railroad men out of work and that somebody must feed them this winter.

"The unions have borne the burden," he said, "until their limit has almost been reached. Somebody, city, State or the Federal Government, or perhaps private charity, must help feed them this winter."

The Southern Railway system yesterday said it had no present intention of cutting wages and accompanied this with an announcement of a voluntary reduction in salaries by its officers. Meanwhile, Ezra Brainerd, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, reiterated that railroad wages would not enter into the proceedings on the plea of the railroads for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

Statement By Southern.

The Southern's statement said: "This company does not contemplate any movement for the reduction of wage scales covered by contracts with organized labor at this time.

"The press story to that effect doubtless had its origin in a recent voluntary reduction of salaries by officers, of which no publicity was intended."

A Washington newspaper yesterday said Southern directors had approved a cut in the pay of "white collar" workers above the $2,500 class. It added that organized labor was not involved in the reduction.

Southern officials said the majority of their workers were union members, but added it was felt no move should be made to cut the pay of unorganized wage earners without including the organized employes.

It was explained that wage earners were ordinarily classified as those who have an hourly pay scale, but that the voluntary reduction would not apply to salaried men who were not company officials.

Salary Saving Little.

The amount of the reduction was not announced but it was said the saving would be very little. Officials said that since Southern shopmen were on a five-day week and many other employes were on a part-time basis, it was felt the officers should contribute toward the economy program.

Published reports that the offices of transportation superintendent at Knoxville, Tenn., and Charlotte, N. C., would be abolished were denied, although it was said office forces there and at other places might be reduced.

The further explanation of the Interstate Commerce Commission's attitude on railroad wages was made in a letter which Commissioner Brainerd wrote Ezra R. Warner, of Chicago. Warner had expressed surprise that the commission had refused to admit a resolution by the Chicago Association of Commerce on the wage question.

Commissioner Brainerd wrote that such communications could not by law become a part of the record upon which a case is decided.

Representatives of organized railroad labor in warning Tuesday that they would resist any attempt to reduce wages, said the question had no part in the freight rate case.

Lamont's Wage Views Attacked by Garner

(Associated Press.)

Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, said yesterday that "contradictions" in the administration's attitude toward wage cuts indicate "just another campaign expedient."

The Texan's statement, issued through the Democratic national committee, quoted a letter by Secretary of Commerce Lamont to Representative Condon, Democrat, Rhode Island,

RUSSIAN BUYER MAY GET PERMIT TO STAY

Former Soviet Official Seeks Exemption From Law Limiting His Visit Here.

(Associated Press.)

A former official of Soviet Russia's Trading Corporation, Amtorg, yesterday was involved in American immigration laws, but indications were he would be permitted to remain in the country.

The Labor Department was engaged in a study of the status of Ivan Matveef, who entered the United States as a machine tool buyer for the metal import corporation, a Russian company, and later became vice president of Amtorg.

Matveef was notified some time ago that the permit under which he entered would be void after July 31. A number of corporations selling tools to him protested and the Labor Department reopened the case.

It was informed yesterday that at a recent meeting of the Amtorg Corporation, which is organized under American laws, but owned by the Soviet, Matveef had not been reelected vice president. His sole occupation now was represented as his connection with the metal import company.

Under these circumstances department officials indicated that although their study of the case was not complete, Matveef would be permitted to remain in America.

Capt. M. D. Mims Burial Set Today

DELAYED PAYMENTS EASY AT WOODLAND

Monthly Amounts of $3.50 Enable Purchasers to Enjoy Beach.

In the ordinary run of life, things to be enjoyed must be paid for first, but The Washington Post is offering residents of the Capital an opportunity to enjoy a summer home and pay for it while they are living in it.

How can this be done? By the easy terms which are available in the purchase of lots at Woodland Beach, The Post's summer home development on South River in Maryland.

A small down payment and then you may have two years in which to clear up the balance, during which time you may be enjoying life at a summer resort which has everything needed to assure your comfort and happiness.

Call at The Washington Post office, make a down payment of $9, plus the price of a subscription to The Post and then start to build on your property. All the time you are building and then living in your cottage, you may pay $3.50 per month until the balance of the $93, the sale price of any lot, has been settled.

When you buy at Woodland Beach you are buying in a development which offers 4½ miles of waterfront; which has wooded areas; which has deep and shallow water in the coves of the South River for swimming and wading; which has amusement devices for the children, and which is rapidly becoming a leader among the resorts of Maryland.

Woodland Beach is only 32 miles away. It is reached by excellent roads. The value of property is constantly increasing in the vicinity of the beach.

SWEETENED TO TASTE WITH Sugar?

Sweeten beverages with refined cane sugar

Is there anything more appealing on a hot day than the clink of ice in a tall glass of your favorite beverage? Is there anything more intriguing than to watch a spoonful of sugar drift slowly down and vanish in the cool depths? And is there anything more invigorating than to sip the beverage thus flavored with sugar?

Nothing takes the place of sugar in sweetening homemade beverages. And the sugar that is a recognized standard in homes the country over, is refined cane sugar.

Enjoy summer by drinking cool, sweet beverages. Not only will they "cool you off," but they will also "pick you up." Refresh yourself with a sweetened drink. The Sugar Institute.

MAINTAINING WAGES.

Few events serve better to illustrate the new industrial philosophy that has come to prevail in the foremost American establishments than the action of the United States Steel Corporation. For two years the demand for steel has been shrinking because of slackened industrial activity. In recent months the earnings of this great corporation have shrunk to a pittance. Yet wages have been maintained at the 1929 level. Now the company has cut dividends almost in half, and salaries are to be reduced, but, for the present at least, wages remain the same. It is apparent that the steel company, like many other great American concerns, is doing its utmost to avoid wage cuts. Officials of the Southern Railway have also agreed to maintain wages and cut their own salaries.

"The principle has been recognized," former President Calvin Coolidge said recently, "that the wage earner holds a preferred position in time of depression." A few years ago wages were the first expense to be trimmed when business hit upon hard times. But industrial leaders have come to realize that lower wages mean a lower standard of living, which tends to stagnate business and industry. Dividends and salaries are cut because stockholders and officials are better able to reduce their family budgets than are workingmen. Wage reductions cut to the very heart of the Nation's capacity for consumption. When industry recognizes that the purchasing power of the people must be maintained to establish a sound basis for prosperity a long step forward has been taken.

There is no reason why the lower dividend for Steel should shake the confidence of the country in an early business recovery. The corporation has shown a disposition to face realities. Retrenchment was necessary. The burden of that retrenchment has been placed where it will be felt least. The fact that the stock market was not seriously upset by action of the Steel corporation indicates that a substantial bottom has been reached, and that the people are confident of improvements in the not distant future.

President Hoover has reiterated his faith in the return of prosperity by again advocating the maintenance of wages. There has been no change in the administration's attitude since the fall of 1929, when Mr. Hoover exacted a promise from the leading industrialists that wage scales would not be reduced. The far-reaching influence of that agreement can not be questioned. Looking back over the last twenty months, it is apparent that the President's action saved the country from industrial collapse.

Wages have been reduced in some instances, but it is remarkable how many industries have resisted the temptation. In the words of Secretary Lamont, some have been "faced with the prospect of closing down altogether and thus creating more unemployment, or, alternatively, seeking temporary wage reductions." In such instances the necessity of dealing with adverse conditions supersedes adherence to theory, no matter how sound that theory may be. But these conditions are exceptional. From the broad standpoint of industry wages must be maintained to create purchasing power.

There is no cure for the world-wide dilemma of overproduction that is so direct and so effective as high wages. To say that the world produces more than it can consume is absurd. Demands of the human race are unlimited. This is a crisis of distribution. Since the depression began prices have been falling. If wages are maintained the disparity between production and purchasing power must soon be adjusted.

It is this sound theory that is causing great industries to reduce dividends and trim salaries without interfering with wage scales. President Hoover's steadfast advocacy of the theory illustrates his remarkable economic foresight. The courageous action of great corporations that are following his advice emphasizes again their faith in the ability of the capitalistic system to cure its own abuses and their confidence in an early return of better times.

REGULATE TAXI SERVICE.

Failure of taxicab operators in the District to agree upon a schedule of rates and zones has removed whatever excuse the Public Utilities Commission may have had for trifling with them. Several of the large companies refused to join in the agreement engineered by R. B. Keech, people's counsel. Presumably, the rate war will continue with further demoralization of Washington's transportation systems. It is imperative that the Public Utilities Commission wake up to its responsibilities.

Regardless of the fact that the public has been paying ridiculously low rates for taxi service during the last week, the situation is highly unsatisfactory from the patrons' viewpoint. When a person calls a taxi he has no idea what the charge may be. Rates are changing overnight. Some concerns charge one price for any trip within the District. Others have zones in which they operate on a flat rate basis. There are no established rules, no stability and very little financial responsibility for accidents involving passengers or pedestrians. Fare so low that they do not pay operating costs have also revived the vicious tipping system.

The public can not have an efficient and adequate transportation service unless it pays the cost. Rate wars tend only to demoralize the responsible carriers, and thus in the end to add to the cost of transportation. The street car companies have complained to the Public Utilities Commission of serious losses occasioned by 10-cent taxi fares. Street car service must be maintained for the convenience of the public. For that reason it is closely supervised by the Utilities Commission. Rates can not be changed, or service discontinued without permission of that body. Yet the commission allows other public carriers to remain wholly unregulated, with the result that they encroach upon the street railway business. Fairness demands that all public carriers be accorded the same treatment. Since the street car companies are not allowed to engage in rate wars, taxicabs must be similarly restricted.

There is some indication that the Public Utilities Commission intends to take the situation in hand. It is difficult to see how it can procrastinate any longer without risking condemnation by public opinion. Conditions are rapidly becoming intolerable. Taxicabs are getting to be a menace on the streets because the low fares encourage reckless driving. Any one who can drive may operate a taxicab service. Financial responsibility has become a remote dream. Unless the Public Utilities Commission steps in there is little hope for improvement. It is about time that the commission began to consider its obligation to regulate public carriers in the District more seriously.

MISREPRESENTING FACTS.

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, took upon himself the job of preparing a Democratic blast to discredit the efforts of President Hoover in extending aid to Germany. He attempts to stigmatize American participation in recent European conferences and to prove that the President's program has resulted in "great loss and detriment" to the United States. In the course of a lengthy article Senator McKellar makes these statements:

> Our international bankers were largely responsible for Germany's financial trouble and yet these same bankers not only secured the moratorium so as to be able the better to get their money back, but that not being effective, they are now wanting our Government to join other governments in putting up loans for Germany.
> This last conference offers no material aid to Germany. Will our Government now put up the necessary cash? Or will the President advise American banks to provide it? Either method will be the same in the end. If he advises private banks to furnish it and they lose it, then, no doubt, the Government will be called upon to make the banks whole.
> Germany has had and is having a hard time financially. At that, she is probably not any worse off than America financially.

The banks know and Senator McKellar should know that this Government does not and can not in these time of peace make loans to other governments. The senator certainly must know that the Government could not be called upon in any event to "make whole" any loans of private banks.

Germany's financial condition today is in no way comparable to that of the United States. This country still has a Federal income amounting to about $3,000,000,000 a year, possesses one-half the world's monetary gold and has unlimited credit backed by an enormous yearly income.

Senator McKellar's distorted assertions, whether made from defective information or designed to mislead, suffice to discredit the entire tirade in which they appear. In trying to criticize the Government's relief measures, which leaders of his own party have indorsed, he has made himself ridiculous. His charges are so wholly unfounded that he has succeeded only in furnishing another example of how senatorial statesmanship may fall into disrepute.

MEXICO'S SILVER BASIS.

Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles is again a dictator in Mexico, but this time he is only financial dictator. His official title is merely that of chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of Mexico. His authority is indicated by the rapidly moving events of the last few days. Last Friday the general assumed his new position and announced the "Calles Plan" for making silver the sole legal tender of Mexico. On Saturday a law embodying the plan was railroaded through the Mexican Congress. On Monday it went into effect.

Heretofore Mexico was on a gold basis, but with circulating mediums of both gold and silver. The low price of silver made it impossible to maintain silver at parity with gold, and silver pesos during recent months have been at a discount as high as 40 per cent as compared to gold pesos. Owing to the fluctuations of silver most contracts, mortgages and bank deposits were made in gold pesos.

The new law decrees that all contractural indebtedness, even if stipulating gold, shall be payable in silver, peso for peso, the exception being bank deposits, which are to be paid 30 per cent in gold and the balance in silver. Mortgages and contracts executed in gold will easily exceed 1,000,000,000 pesos, so that the silver decree causes an immediate loss to the holders of about 400,000,000 gold pesos, approximately half that amount in American dollars.

What the ultimate effect of this revolutionary and confiscatory action will be can not accurately be foretold. Advocates of the measure in Mexico express the belief that it will improve the exchange value of the silver peso. The world has reduced silver to the status of a commodity. Mexico attempts to reverse this and to degrade gold, removing all restrictions on imports and exports. To avoid being swamped with cheap silver all coinage of the white metal is prohibited for the present.

Gen. Calles began doing extremely radical things when he was governor of Sonora. He continued his record while president and now as financial arbiter of Mexico he inaugurates a radical departure from established monetary procedure. The financial situation in Mexico will remain unsettled until the effect of the new law is clear, but with the higher rate of exchange for silver a falling off in the importation of foreign goods is to be expected.

EUROPEAN BUDGETS.

Depressed business conditions are reflected in the state of public finances of the greater European nations. The budget balances that have just been announced for the past fiscal year, however, reveal the encouraging status of eight countries that have a surplus.

Spain shows a surplus of 1 per cent over her total expenditures, while the other seven countries showing favorable balances are: The Netherlands, with about 3 per cent over ordinary expenditures; Switzerland, with 1.5 per cent; Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, the Baltic States, Jugoslavia and Greece. As some of these countries have not completed their statements, the exact figures are not available as to the extent of their surpluses.

Due to the necessary contributions to the unemployment fund in the United Kingdom, as well as other relief work which has been unusually heavy this year, British expenditures have been greater than were expected. The trade depression having reduced revenue, the resulting deficit of about $113,268,000, or 2.6 per cent, is shown in the British budget.

The minister of the budget in France states that, although the exact figures are not yet available, he believes the deficit of that country will be about $86,000,000, or 4 or 5 per cent of the total expenditures. The deficit is due to the heavy supplemental credits voted for social insurance, flood relief, &c., which offset the favorable tax returns of nearly 1,000,000,000 francs above the estimates.

The German budget, which was closed last March, showed a deficit of $297,400,000, or a little over 13 per cent of the total expenditures. Although part of this is due to the decrease in tax returns, the drain of the reparation payments and the deficit of the previous year are in the main responsible for the heavy discrepancy.

The Italian deficit of $75,000,000 constitutes 8 per cent of her expenditures. This report was made at the end of April, and favorable reports for May and June are expected to reduce the deficit materially. Italy's income, though lower than was anticipated, is higher than last year.

EXPLOITING CRIME

From the Saturday Evening Post.

What person with any sense of responsibility or concern for the future welfare of his or her country has not been troubled by the proneness of part of the press to sensationalize and overplay the romantic and adventurous side of crime? It is impossible to expect the millions of boys who will shortly become young men to grow into a wholesome manhood when both newspapers and motion pictures display so frequently and so glowingly the life of gunmen, gangsters, beer runners, racketeers and other base and depraved types. The mind of youth is bound to be poisoned when there are so many articles and pictures featuring not only the exploits but the power, resourcefulness, immunity from prosecution, wealth and luxury of underworld characters. Practically all these felons come to grief eventually. But in the newspaper accounts and in the pictures the last chapter consumes very little space or time.

It is said that underworld pictures have about run their cycle, which, if true, is cause for gratification. But in any case, the motion pictures constitute a relatively new industry, with methods, standards and ethics still in the adolescent stage. Although much older than the radio, the pictures are still in a stage of considerable confusion because of their newness.

The press is an old institution, with recognized standards and responsibilities toward the community. In certain respects these responsibilities are admirably fulfilled. No one can possibly complain of the attitudes of the newspapers toward the bank failures which plagued the country in 1930 and to some extent in the first half of this year. The papers did their full duty in publishing news which had a real public interest. But they did not sensationalize or overplay this news in a way to cause distortion of the situation or produce public alarm.

We earnestly submit that economic problems are not the only ones which require such helpful and judicious treatment on the part of the newspapers. Not even the richest banks and newspapers will be worth a continental if underworld scum continue to be made the heroes of 14, 15 and 16 year old boys. There is far greater need at the present time of toning down the accounts of venturesome and alluring aspects of criminal activities than ever existed for soft-pedaling the stories of bank runs or overnight mergers.

However necessary our financial institutions may be, they are far less important than the moral standards and ideals of youth. The press has an obvious and greater responsibility than that of supporting the economic foundations, for these are worth nothing when the moral supports are torn away.

Another Disarmament Problem.

P. H.

FARM PROBLEM SOLVED.

In the days before oil was discovered in Texas, a traveling man stopped for the night at a dryland ranch near Wink, says the Hudson Star.

As he discussed the affairs of the country with his host, he became more and more puzzled as to how the little ranch paid its way. At last he ventured the question:

"How in the world do you make a go of things at all?"

Indicating the hired man, who was sitting at the far end of the supper table, the host replied:

"You see that feller there? Well, he works for me, and I can't pay him. In two years he gits the ranch. Then I work for him till I git it back."

The Empty Head May Swell, But It Doesn't Make a Whining Noise.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is a defense of "conceited" people.

They deserve a kind word, if only because the world is against them.

They are not responsible for their condition.

When the world observes an individual whose head is swelled, it commonly inquires: "What has he got to be stuck up about?"

The answer is that he has everything.

Alexander sighed for more worlds to conquor, but our subject is unaware of other worlds.

His world is the one over which he has triumphed.

A man's head doesn't swell while he regards himself as a failure or a mere climber, nor does he purr with self-satisfaction while ambition urges him to achieve greater triumphs.

Thus it follows that conceit is an evidence of arrival.

The man with the swelled head has reached his limit of altitude and is mercifully unaware of greater heights.

He isn't going anywhere, for he doesn't realize there is anywhere else to go.

He may be only a justice of the peace, or the best boxer in Podunk Center, or the son of a village Shylock, and his possessions may be limited to a sport roadster, a hot dog stand or the sum of ten thousand dollars; but whatever he is and whatever he has seems to his limited understanding the final and proper goal of a successful man.

That is obviously true, for he couldn't be so complacently happy if he knew how much of the world remained unconquered.

You may quite properly smile at his absurdity and pity his ignorance, but why detest and malign him?

The stupid are born stupid, and a mental cripple deserves as much pity as the maimed and the halt.

What is more, the conceited one injures you in no way, except possibly to cause a slight pain in your neck, and in many ways he does you unconscious service.

He cures you of any tendency to be self-satisfied.

He inspires you to be something more than he is.

And his protruding chest, his unlifted chin, his supreme confidence, his optimism, his cheerful assumption that all is well with the world, his bubbling bliss—all work together to fill the world with good cheer and shame the discontented and discouraged.

Certainly, with all his faults, he is much easier to bear than the doleful brethren who have greater blessings and yet darken their vicinity with a blue fog of self-pity because their pathway isn't strewn with rose petals.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Roosevelt's Humidity.

New York Herald-Tribune.

One would indeed have to do a great deal of reading to discover the exact degree of the Roosevelt humidity.

For a time the governor waited, with a view to "bowing to the will of the people." But when the State platform was adopted he executed a neat back-track. He was for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but he favored another amendment in its place. One outrageously misplaced Federal hobble was to be replaced by another. The solution of the prohibition problem was certainly not advanced; but at any rate the governor's position showed why he had been able in the past to discuss States' rights without mentioning prohibition.

The governor's wet stand is still a matter for interpretation by some Delphic oracle. He has never followed up his verbal opposition to the eighteenth amendment with any action which marks him as a leader determined to rid the country of a condition which is rotting its political life.

Wilsonism Revived.

Chicago Tribune.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has been regarded as one of the likely candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, but in a speech the other night he committed himself to Wilsonian internationalism. He said our era of isolation was over and regardless of our traditions we were in the maelstrom of world economics with no chance of making a distinction between economics and politics.

America never had an era of isolation. Gov. Ritchie and other Wilsonians talk as if the United States were behind a mountain barricade in a valley and never came out of it. The country always has felt the effect of world conditions, sometimes favorably and sometimes unfavorably. The infant republic began by fighting to make Mediterranean trade routes safe to its commerce from African piracy and by competing with the British marine for the Far East trade. It stepped into world complications in its first pair of breeches and has been in them ever since.

Gov. Ritchie's Idea.

Boston Transcript.

The Hoover debt moratorium plan is now in the honeymoon stage, with almost no one willing to look ahead a year and imagine what must happen then. An exception is found, however, in none other than Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, and especial interest will attach to his utterances, vague though they are, because he is an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, and conceivably might win it, if the South will accept him as its own. Gov. Ritchie reminds the country that certain contingencies must be faced in the future, and that nothing will be gained by suppressing or fearing this fact. The Allies pay us money, he says, but they can not pay if Germany does not pay them; and when the year's moratorium is over, German reparations, in all likelihood, will not be resumed on the present basis. "There will be another extension," says the governor, "or a readjustment or a radical change of some sort, and this will correspondingly affect the debts due us."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Head of 'Prisoners' Relief Society Thinks Prison Problems Will Be Solved Within Next 50 Years.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You published quite a sensible editorial in regard to the Wickersham report.

Prison reform was first started in this country in 1888 by Dr. George H. Sandison, editor of the Christian Herald. He first investigated the New York prisons and then set in writing and publishing facts. Conditions were mighty bad, and his writings got some of the big men in New York interested, and since then we have had a gradual improvement in prison management.

The parole system has been advanced as fast as is practicable. Reforms must come slowly if they last. As a rule, convicts in prison are well treated and given a chance to improve, and many are improved when they come out.

The management of Government prisons is as nearly perfect as this day could expect. They have a program of improvements that will bring them above criticism.

Vast improvements have come to stay, but they came since 1888. In another 50 years our prisons will have solved their own problems.

Jury Verdict in Berwyn Accident Denounced as Unjust to Brave Enginemen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It was with the utmost satisfaction that I read in your columns on July 26 an appeal for a just decision as to the responsibility for the recent accident on the railroad tracks at Berwyn, Md.—an appeal to the public sense of justice over the decision of a local and evidently very incompetent jury.

It was with the strongest feeling of indignation that I read of the findings of the jury in question at the time the report was published in your paper, thinking, "Is there no one to come forward to exonerate those two dead men, who so unquestionably did all in their power to prevent that horrible and needless catastrophe?"

I am indeed glad that the company by whom those men were employed, true to its traditions, has made a public stand for truth and justice in this matter.

No one surely who is deaf and blind to all danger warnings is competent to operate a vehicle and above all things in public places and places of danger. JULIA P. F. WALLACE.

Correspondent Sees Need for International Friendship, Especially Between France and Germany.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a mere citizen, it appears to me that the most hopeful thing in connection with the German financial crisis is the Hindenburg plea to permit the actual borrowing of large sums of money to go over until real confidence exists among the powers that shall participate. That will prevent haggling and further feeling of strife.

What we need most of all is friendship among the nations of Europe, confidence and trust between Germany and France, with England participating not for the advantage of England or of Germany, but rather as a nation concerned for the well-being of all other nations. Sometimes I believe that the United States has done Germany more good than harm in being overzealous in her behalf.

Fireman Lundy, Who Stopped Train at Berwyn, Although in Agony, Commended for His Heroism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to give my hearty approval to the stand taken by P. L. W. in the case of the recent crossing accident at Berwyn. He is perfectly right in the manner he treats the verdict rendered.

While we are on the subject, why not some thanks to the fireman (Lundy), who stopped the "flier," although in considerable agony.

What if Lundy had also jumped? What would have happened to the people in the train? Recognize his brave act. A. B. C.

MODERATION.

All things to good or ill are turned,
The fire by which the house was burned
Had cooked the meal and warmed the place
While blazing at a lesser pace;
Likewise the cold that gives us ice
In summer time is very nice,
But bitter are the winds that blow
All winter across the snow.

Too little or too much is bad,
At neither end is comfort had;
However fair the pleasures seem
'Tis torture pushed to the extreme.
The laughter gay that gladdens men
Is relished only now and then;
And were it every hour assured
By no one could it be endured.

The glad vacation days fly by,
But did they linger we should sigh;
Drawn out too long, rest once enjoyed
Brings on the wish to be employed
And sets man hungering to renew
The round of tasks from which he flew.
Pleasure is only pleasure when
Man can return to work again.

LYON PARK CITIZENS SCORE INTERSECTION

Installation of Traffic Signal on Pershing Drive Is Advocated.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

Resolutions emphasizing what they called the unsatisfactory traffic situation at the intersection of Pershing drive and Washington avenue were adopted at the meeting of the Lyon Park Citizens Association meeting at the community house last night. Installation of a suspended "Stop-go" automatic traffic light immediately over the intersection is advocated by the resolutions, directed to the board of supervisors.

The present boulevard stop signs were criticized for the reason that they can not be seen at night, there being no street light at the intersection, and are often concealed during the day by parked cars, so that numerous cars pass the intersection without obeying the stop sign.

It was also pointed out that vehicles frequently approach the intersection from all four directions and come to a stop at the same time. Traffic is usually seriously delayed under these circumstances for the reason that no one knows who should cross the intersection first, the resolutions said.

Failure to abide by the ruling of Dr. Norbert Milnick, county sanitary inspector, that there should be no more dumping, until further orders, on the dump along the Washington-Richmond highway below Columbia pike, resulted in the arrest of James McKenney, who had been placed in charge at the dump by Warren Dean, of Washington, to whom the permit had been issued.

McKenney, arrested by Officer Edward Duncan and charged with violation of a county ordinance, was taken to the office of Judge Harry R. Thomas, where he was given a hearing and fined $14.25, including costs.

Declaring that persons in charge of clearing the right of way for the Lee boulevard through Arlington County have refused the request of needy the use of the wood and were burning it instead, Thomas R. Mechem, chairman of the relief committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, stated last night he had written to the State highway commission asking that the wood be turned over to his committee for distribution during the coming winter.

During the clearing, Mechem says, many cords of wood have been piled in the right of way to dry and then have been burned.

Maryland Militia Ball Game Victor

Firing for Record Will Be Started at Camp Cascade Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., July 29.—Following instruction in tactics in the morning, the men of the First Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, were given the usual Wednesday afternoon recess this afternoon. Among the athletic activities which were staged was a ball game between a team picked from the regiment and the Waynesboro Volunteer Fire Department Team. The regimental team defeated the firemen by the score of 15 to 4. The outstanding star of the game was Pvt. Bernard A. Hartman, of Frederick, who pasted the sphere for three home runs.

Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, of Pocomoke City, for the second time today won first place in the daily kitchen inspection. The com-

Two Young Timber Wolves Escape Silver Spring Cage

GEORGE HAVENER,
of Silver Spring, shown with the young timber wolf, which bit him sometime ago and which escaped for the second time yesterday. The animal is one of a pair belonging to A. W. Cowell.

Dog Attack Only Damage by Animals Captured by Owner.

Two young timber wolves, each about five months old, escaped from their pen in Silver Spring, Md., yesterday morning and invaded neighbors' chicken yards, but were recaptured by their owner, A. W. Cowell, before they could do any damage.

The pair has been kept in a building in the rear of Mr. Cowell's home at 746 Thayer street since one of them bit a boy several months ago. Apparently a heavy timber, which leans against the door of their enclosure, fell out of place yesterday, allowing the door to swing open. Mr. Cowell captured one of them in his hands and the other fled back to its pen.

Neighbors said yesterday that they did not know where the animals were from, but thought Mr. Cowell had gotten them "up the country." It was reported that they are being kept to be bred with police dogs.

One of the animals is reported to have attacked a dog yesterday morning, according to neighbors who said they were awakened by the resulting tumult. Other persons living nearby said that yesterday's escape is the second within two weeks.

The wolves are the second lot of wild animals to escape near Washington lately, several persons having been injured when two Alaskan bears escaped in Falls Church, Va.

Gen. Fries Tells Alexandria Of Communist Peril Here

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. Army, retired, former chief of the chemical warfare service of the Army, delivered an address on "Communism" under the auspices of the National Order of Protestant Clubs last night in Odd Fellows Hall. Bert B. Pigman, an auditor of the Shipping Board, presided, and other speakers were Maj. Alexander M. Lochwitzky, for 22 years a member of the Russian secret service and now connected with the office of the surgeon general of the Army in Washington, who spoke briefly on communism; C. M. P. Lord, who spoke on "Protestantism," and the Rev. William McDougall, the "radio preacher," whose talk was on "Americanism."

Gen. Fries referred to the "growing evil of communism in this country" and the strides which it has made since the World War. He recited the history of communism, from its inception, and said the earliest record was in 1776, when the same principles which are now in effect in Russia were first advocated, and mentioned the publication in 1847, by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engles, of the Communist Manifesto, which was republished in English in 1929.

The speaker drew a contrast between the French Revolution and the Russian Revolution. The reason for the failure of the French Commune, he said, was that the members were not ruthless enough, and failed to put to death all their enemies. The Russian Communists, on the other hand, profiting by the failure of the French, murdered not only all their opponents, but all those who might possibly oppose them. The Russian Communists have murdered "countless millions, probably more than twice as many as were killed in the World War, and are today as ruthless as ever," Gen. Fries said.

This country has everything necessary for a condition of the greatest prosperity ever known, he said, all that is lacking being a "stirring up," or distribution. To relieve the situation of the 6,000,000 unemployed men he would favor a capital tax of, say, 20 per cent on the huge private fortunes, with a smaller tax on lesser holdings, and the building, with the proceeds, of highways and public works to give employment to those who need it. He estimated that in this way $9,000,000,000 a year could be raised and spent, and in four years more money could be made available than the United States spent in the World War.

Rounding out 50 years of continuous service as organist at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Joseph M. Monroe yesterday evening celebrated his golden jubilee with an organ recital in the church at 7:30 o'clock, followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by the Rev. J. O. Schmidhauser, assistant pastor of the church. The congregation then repaired to Lyceum Hall, in Duke street, where an informal reception was held, and the Rev. Father Schmidhauser, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. Monroe with a bag made of gold ribbon containing gold pieces to the amount of approximately $500. A letter was read from the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin, pastor of the church, regretting his inability to be present. A short talk was also made by the Rev. M. J. Cannon, formerly of St. Mary's, but now pastor of the church at Manassas, Va.

A special mass was celebrated for Mr. Monroe at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Monroe was born in this city on October 19, 1861. He was graduated from old St. Mary's School in 1879, and after completing a course in music was given the position of organist of St. Mary's, then under the pastorate of the Rev. D. J. O'Kane, S. J.

The case of Robert F. Downham in an injunction suit brought by him against the city council of Alexandria, was argued before Judge Luther B. Way, in the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, in this city, each side having an hour and a half to present its arguments. It is not thought a decision will be handed down before the September term of court.

Attorney Charles Henry Smith, representing Downham, asked permission of the court to submit a brief, and his request was granted, and a brief also will be filed by City Attorney Carl L. Budwesky upholding the contention of the city in the case.

Mr. Downham seeks to enjoin the city from interfering with him in the erection of a gasoline filling station at King street and Russell road.

William Lewis, jr., colored, 18 years old, was held for the grand jury following a preliminary hearing in police court yesterday on a charge of having murdered George Francis Webster, colored, on Sunday night.

W. M. Temple will address the Kiwanis Club today on "Insulation," and will be presented by Henry C. Goodnow, program chairman for the day. A number of members of the local club were guests yesterday of the Arlington County Club, at luncheon at the Windsor Arms.

Judge Luther B. Way has handed down a number of decisions for local plaintiffs, in a suit in the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, growing out of the construction of the noncommissioned officers' quarters at Fort Humphreys, chiefly for materials used by the contractors. Decisions were as follows: W. A. Smoot & Co., Inc., $8,046.16; G. B. Wallace and George W. Herring, trading as Wallace & Herring, $4,225; J. Kent White, $989.06; Worth Hulfish & Sons, Inc., $194.85. Interest is given the complainants by the terms of the order.

The defendants, E. C. Derby, Fayetteville, N. C., and Consolidated Indemnity & Insurance Co., of New York, noted an appeal and have been given fifteen days to file same and posted bond in the sum of $15,000.

All persons desiring to vote by mail will be compelled to get their ballots, properly marked, into the hands of the registrars of their respective wards by midnight tonight. Registrars are: First ward, Scott Grimm, 210 Duke street; second ward, Frank C. Creighton, 401 King street; third ward, Frank R. Monroe, 429 North Columbus street; fourth ward, George H. Railing, 818 King street; fifth ward, John J. Kiger, 33 Alexandria avenue, or the Alexandria National Bank, and sixth ward, J. Frank Moriarty, 517 Newton avenue.

M'LEAN CARNIVAL PLANS COMPLETED

Directors of Fairfax Horse Show to Hold Meeting This Evening.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

J. H. Beattie, chairman of the McLean Day and fireman's carnival which will open Saturday on the grounds of the Franklin-Sherman High School at McLean, announced last night that all plans for the celebration had been completed. The carnival is run jointly by the McLean School and Civic League and the McLean volunteer fire department.

Mr. Beattie has associated with him Harry R. Farver, business manager; R. R. Sherman, assistant business manager, and John W. Preston and Jesse Dailey, representing the fire department, and J. P. Fresh and J. C. Storm, the league.

The central committee in charge of the various events have been selected as follows: Grounds and parking, Jesse Dailey; food and drinks, J. Clement Storm; games, John W. Preston; contest, J. P. Frech. The individual committee chairmen have been named as follows: Bingo, J. W. Preston; automobile, Elmer Guilford; blanket stand, C. W. Florence; throwing games, Albert Gorham; darts, W. Dailey; candy stand, Ray Kane; hoops, J. Dailey; watermelons, A. Dailey; soft drinks, Franklin Glicker, sr.; cake and lemonade, Mrs. J. Hummer; ice cream, McLean 4-H Club; dancing, Franklin Glicker, jr.; dinner and lunch, McLean Ladies' Auxiliary, with Mrs. Grace Magarity, president; baby show, Mrs. A. Dailey and Mrs. H. A. Storm; tug of war, baseball and rolling pin contests, J. P. Frech. The pumper contests will be under the supervision of Mr. Beattie.

The opening program Saturday includes a baseball game between Vienna and McLean, a baby show and a tug of war between McLean and Forestville. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the fire department will serve hot chicken dinners both Saturday afternoons, with a supper at 5 o'clock in the evening. There will be dancing each night from 9 until 12 o'clock, with the carnival events open at 7 o'clock.

Crocket C. Carr, of Oakton, former secretary of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, candidate for the nomination as treasurer of Fairfax County in the primary election Tuesday, stated yesterday that "a thorough canvass of the county assures my nomination."

Mr. Carr said that if elected to this office he would promise the taxpayers that he would devote his entire time to the conduct of the office and will not engage in any other business or profession. He declares that he will practice the strictest economy consistent with high efficiency and will not employ any member of his family in the office.

Estler M. Palmer, of Barcroft, president, and Robert D. Graham, of Fairfax, secretary, of the Fairfax County Fair Association, have called a meeting of the directors this evening in the secretary's office in Fairfax.

President Palmer states that the horse show this year on September 10 and 11, with the pony show on September 12, promises to be the largest ever held by the association with more valuable prizes and cups. A special class will be provided for the Fairfax County hunters and riders sponsored by the Fairfax Hunt Club, A. Smith Bowman, of Sunset Hills, president. Races will be featured each day of the fair.

An inspection of the celebrated bear cage in the rear of R. L. Makley's garage in East Falls Church, Va., has been made by Mayor L. P. Daniel of Falls Church. For the last week Mayor Daniel has been attending the Reserve Officers Training Camp at Fort Humphreys.

The survivor of Falls Church's now famous bears is still being kept in the cage and Mayor Daniel notified the attendant, who is taking care of the bear during Makley's absence, that insanitary conditions of the cage must be improved immediately. The bear is one of the two that escaped early last week, injuring four persons before residents of the town succeeded in capturing one alive and Deputy Sheriff Paul Herrman, of Fairfax County, shot and killed the other.

Mayor Daniel has stated that the town council has not as yet decided what action it will take to have the bear removed from the town and to allow no other person to keep dangerous pets within the corporate limits.

John W. Brookfield, newly-elected president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, has announced that he will endeavor to keep the trade body out of county politics and for that reason will defer the appointment of the chamber's standing committee for the net year until after the Democratic primary next Tuesday.

President Brookfield plans to send a letter to the entire membership of the chamber outlining the trade body's financial condition and the need for support in carrying forward the work planned for during the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration next year.

MONTGOMERY FAILS TO AGREE ON SCHOOL

Another Meeting Monday to Consider Site for New Structure.

Failing to agree on a site for the projected senior high school in the Eastern suburban district of Montgomery County, the general committee on school matters adjourned early yesterday after a meeting lasting more than four hours.

Another meeting will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock in he Takoma-Silver Spring High School, according to Ralph Lee, chairman of the committee.

Most of the meeting was taken up with a discussion of Maj. E. Brooke Lee's resolution that the site to be recommended to the county commissioners should be within a radius of two-thirds of a mile from the Sligo Creek bridge on the Coleville Pike. Four of the sites proposed are within this circle.

Resolution Defeated.

Maj. Lee pointed out that this area is close to the present center of population, and appears to lie in the path of future growth of the community. He also stressed the fact that this circle contains the projected Sligo Valley Parkway. His resolution was finally lost by a vote of 28 to 32.

J. Bond Smith, leader of the Takoma Park delegation, answered Maj. Lee by saying that this location had "plenty of parks but few school children."

Mr. Smith supported the two Takoma Park sites by pointing out that one of them is just over the Takoma line, while another is actually in East Silver Spring. He said either of these was in the center of five-sixths of the population and was equidistant from each town.

Davis Suggestion Wins.

Maj. Lee's resolution was offered as a substitute to one proposed by Mayor Ben G. Davis of Takoma Park, who wanted each of the sites taken up and discussed in alphabetical order. The Davis resolution was later adopted and it is understood that the next meeting will be conducted on these lines.

A resolution offered by George C. Shinn, of Kensington, that the committee should not recommend any site in which a committee member has any financial interest, was tabled by a vote of 25 to 14. At the beginning of the meeting, Chairman Lee proposed a set of rules that the discussion should follow, but they were not adopted when Maj. Lee objected to them.

Senor Davila Is Presented at White House

New Honduran Envoy Is Third of That Name Among Diplomats.

THE President received the new Minister of Honduras, Senor Celeo Davila, yesterday afternoon at the White House. Senor Davila presented his credentials as envoy. He was accompanied to this country by his wife and their only child, Marima.

The name Davila is destined to throw Capital hostesses into a state of confusion when the official season in Washington begins. The new Minister of Honduras is the third envoy in the Capital bearing that name. The Ambassador of Chile is Senor Carlos Davila, and the Roumanian Minister is Mr. Charles Davila.

Mr. Mellon to Return By September.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, who attended the seven-power conference in London, is now at St Jean, Cape Ferrat, France, where he will be for two weeks. The Secretary will sail for home late in August and hopes to reach Washington by September 1.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles Davila, entertained at dinner on Tuesday evening in Newport, where he is spending the summer.

The Minister of Gautemala, who came to Washington last Monday, has returned to Margate, N. J., to join Mme. Recinos and their children, who are at the seashore.

Rear Admiral Cameron R. Winslow, of Newport, will act as chairman of the mayor's committee for the reception of the historic frigate Constitution, which will be anchored in the harbor at Newport from August 10 to 13.

The former Ambassador to Germany, Mr. James W. Gerard, will sail today on the Vulcania for Europe, where he will be until the middle of September. Mrs. Gerard and Mrs. Marcus Daly will join him in Europe later.

Cuba Greets New British Envoy There

Capt. Ritchie and Bride Are Enjoying Lakes in Ireland.

Dispatches from overseas bring news of two former British Embassy diplomats in Washington, Sir John Joyce Broderick, now British Minister to Cuba, who was commercial counselor here, and Capt. J. S. M. Ritchie, former naval attache.

Sir John and the charming Lady Broderick, who are now established in Havana, were recently received with great ceremony by President Machado. Amid a fanfare of trumpets and with an escort of cavalry, the Brodericks were escorted to the residence of the President, where Sir John presented his credentials as Minister to Cuba. Both, apparently, are enjoying the same popularity which attended them during their long residence in Washington.

Sir John and Lady Broderick made a brief visit to the Capital in June, before sailing for their new post, and during their sojourn here were feted extensively at small and informal parties.

Sir John went to London following his appointment as Minister to Cuba, and returned to this country especially to be in Washington for the dinner given by the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of King George V. He is succeeded here by Mr. H. O. Chalkley.

Friends here welcome news of Capt. and Mrs. Ritchie, who left Washington in April to make their home in London. They are now motoring through Ireland, lingering in charming Irish lake resorts, and expect to top off their trip with a journey to Scotland for several weeks of fishing. Some time this month they will return to London to set about the prosaic task of house-hunting.

Capt. Ritchie, who was naval attache at the embassy here, has been appointed director of training and staff duties by the British admiralty. Although his residence in Washington was somewhat brief, having come here about two years ago, Capt. Ritchie made a wide circle of friends. After living here a year he returned to London, ostensibly for a visit, but came back with a charming bride, and last winter their home on Twenty-third street was one of the centers of diplomatic entertaining in the city. Although hosts at small parties, rarely entertaining on a large scale, their entertainments were noted in their set. Both Capt. Ritchie and his bride are tennis enthusiasts and seldom missed outstanding events of the courts either here or in New York.

Capt. Ritchie has been succeeded in Washington by Capt. Patrick McNamara.

Visiting Capital From Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Perry, of Richmond, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Ferrell, of Guilford, N. C., have come to Washington for a short visit, and while here will be at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Mattie Wyatt Porter leaves on Saturday for Great Lakes, Ill., to be the guest of Rear Admiral and Mrs. S. Crosley at the naval training station.

Miss Connolly Becomes Bride Of C. F. Reavis

Garden Ceremony Scene at Ringwood House, Tuxedo Park.

The marriage of Miss Clairinne Hunter Connolly, daughter of Mrs. R. J. Beresford Hunter, of Washington, to Mr. Charles Frank Reavis, jr., son of Mr. Charles Frank Reavis, of this city, took place yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the garden of Ringwood House, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hewit, near Tuxedo Park. Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni was matron of honor and Mr. Pantaleoni was best man.

Mr. Reavis whose father was a representative in Congress from 1912 to 1918, is now practicing law in New York. His bride is a granddaughter of Lady Mary Beresford, of the Isle of Wight, England, and is a member of the Junior League.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF July 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m.

July 30 is astrologically marked as "neutral," and a colorless program is predicted. A puzzled state of mind and indecision will prevent action, where action is paramount to your interests. Difficulties and complications through interference from outsiders.

The child born on this July 30 will have a highly strung nervous system, and will be inclined to hysteria. It will not care for robust sports, and will be an inveterate reader. It will be inclined to follow the line of least resistance. It will have a lovable nature, and will seek approbation.

Born on July 30, you have both brain and grit. Given a job to do, a post to fill, you can be left to do it. You are not afraid to use your own judgment, and you can supply your own ideas. You are a "self-winder," and can supply your own enthusiasm for life. You are not a mechanical performer of routine duties, and could never be made one—you have vision and originality. You may be steadfast and loyal to that which you consider your life-sustaining job, but you are always eager to put your mind and fingers to something new. You are both imitative and creative, and you usually are able to add to an original idea. You sometimes find yourself in difficulties because you do not know how to let well enough alone. The audaciousness in your "make-up" needs toning down.

You love a battle of wits, in the form of a good argument, and, be you man or woman, you usually get in the last word. It is difficult for you to keep sarcasm out of your speech and your caustic remarks often make enemies for you. You do not lack frankness or sincerity, but you do lack diplomacy. In your criticisms you are more destructive than constructive.

You take considerable pride in your home, and will find a great deal of comfort and happiness therein.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WITH tabulations by the Census Bureau of two-thirds of the States completed, indications are that the total number of radio receiving sets in the United States, as of April 1, 1930, will fall far short of the estimates of the radio industry and the Department of Commerce.

The average of families with radio sets so far has been about one-third. Tabulations of 34 States and the District of Columbia reveal a total of only 4,168,510 sets among 12,941,653 families.

While the count of the remaining third States is expected to boost the total considerably because the most populous States have not yet been tabulated, it is doubtful whether the final count will be over 10,000,000.

Estimates of the radio industry and the Department of Commerce ranged from approximately 13,000,000 to 15,500,000 in the summer and fall of 1930. Whatever the total of the Census Bureau count, however, the actual number of sets in operation in the country now will be greater because of the considerable sale of midget sets last year and during the first half of this year.

THE NBC Music Appreciation Hour series will be resumed by Dr. Walter Damrosch early in October.

Station WNAC, Boston, will mark its ninth anniversary with a special program tomorrow night (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock).

A series of eight weekly broadcasts will be begun tonight by John Charles Thomas, barytone (WJZ network, 8:30 p. m.). For this first appearance since his return from Europe he has chosen "My Message" and "Because," d'Hardelot; "The Old Black Mare," and "A Dream," Bartlett.

Making his first air appearance in this country following his successful appearances at La Scala, Milan, Fritz Reiner will conduct the New York Philharmonic Stadium concert tonight (WMAL, 9 o'clock). He has selected the Strauss poem, "Till Eulenspiegel," and Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz."

WMAL's detective series, written by William Sweets, former Washington announcer, will be concluded (tonight, 8:30 o'clock) with "Fugitive's Retreat," a portrayal of the efforts and methods used by criminals to stay out of reach of the law.

TWO major events in the Eastern Michigan water carnival will be broadcast by Ted Husing tomorrow and Saturday (WMAL, 2 p. m.).

A popular program has been arranged for presentation by Sam Lanin and his orchestra tomorrow night (WMAL, 9 o'clock.).

Exercises dedicating a granite shaft to Commodore Perry's victory in the battle of Lake Erie, with Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis as the principal speaker, will be broadcast tomorrow (WEAF network, 4:45 p. m.).

Attached to a note penciled in childish scribble received by the NBC was a letterhead bearing the legend, "Radio Broadcasting Station ORT, owned and operated by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, on a wave length of 25,000 kilocycles, 5 bicycles, 2 motorcycles, one scooter and two stepladders."

The note read as follows:

"Nashional Broadcast Co., Dear Sir:

"My dad gave me this and I think its the bunk. how can you broadcast on 5 bicycles and 2 motor cickles? Whats so many kilocycles for? Is it a new televisien machine you have got? Yours truly,

"JACK BOYLE, Jr."

The Girl Crazy Quartet, stars of the New York revue of that name, will be guest artists with the Philco Orchestra in the electrical transcription program tonight (WMAL, 10 o'clock).

Howard Dietz, the songwriter, was the guest of Guy Lombardo at a New York hotel where the Royal Canadians were broadcasting. Suddenly the lights were dimmed until the room was in almost complete darkness. The silhouetted couples glided by.

"That's what they like," spoke up Guy, "dancing in the dark."

"Dancing in the dark," returned the alert songwriter. "Say, Guy, that's a swell idea for a song. I'm writing the tunes with Arthur Schwartz for a new revue that will open some time during the summer, and we'll do one with that title."

And it came to pass. The song, of course, was "Dancing in the Dark," and the show "The Band Wagon," a hit on Broadway.

FROM the Thomaston (Ga.) Times:

"The radio has convinced us that Westinghouse knew very little about air brakes."

Toscha Seidel tells of the time when as a boy he played the violin at a private musical. While playing a different concerto which contained some particularly long rests for the soloist, a kindly elderly woman found in one of these intervals an opportunity to lean toward him and whisper loudly:

"Why don't you play something that you know, my boy?"

Jane Corbin INTERPRETS the MODE

A dashing ensemble for the races—the frock of red embroidery crepe de chine, and the coat embroidered light weight wool crepe. (Courtesy of Premet, Paris).

New York, July 29.

ARE the American women getting horse race-conscious? They decidedly are! What with not being able to cross oceans at the slightest whim, and yet feeling the need of entertainment and plenty of it, and preferably of the sophisticated variety that was one of the lures of "abroad," our thoughts are turning to racing as a social event much more than before.

Not so long ago, there were only a very few race tracks where American women went. And even then, they were looked on as distinctly "sporty" and not quite nice if they showed any particular enthusiasm for this sport. The woman who didn't care and wasn't anyway dressed—well, just exactly as though they didn't care! They were the masculine women, in mannish tailored tweeds, out for one thing only—to judge some particular horse so well that they'd make a considerable sum of money.

But what a metamorphosis today! We can't—or don't—go to Europe for our races these days. But we've brought our smart races here to America — fashionable gatherings, lovely clothes and everything. We haven't leaped too suddenly into the luxurious and extreme European race track styles, but our clothes for the races are becoming, bit by bit, lovelier and more feminine. Oh, of course we do like races, as races, especially when a lucky tip puts a few unexpected dollars into our chic purses—but we like still more to mingle with Miladis Elegantes and compare their clothes with ours, the while we make mental notes of styles we are going to adopt for ourselves as soon as we can.

• • • •

And before we get off the subject of races, I have illustrated a costume worn at one of the smartest races this season on Long Island. In spite of being worn in this country, this ensemble is from Premet, and in its color, line and fabric it's perfect for the race spectator. The frock is of vivid, cherry red crepe de chine, with odd, embroidered lines in self color, and fullness given to the skirt by the fan-pleated front godet. The coat, just a bit shorter than the frock is of the same cherry-red color, but wool crepe, and embroidered all over with lines in silk embroidery.

To me, an ensemble of this type, slightly more dressy than our ordinary early afternoon wear, but far less elaborate than the longer and fluttery chiffon type of thing, is the wise choice of fashionable women until the racing pastime assumes its rightful place in the smart world on our own side of the Atlantic.

• • • •

Naturally accessories are most important with "racing clothes." This glove and bag ensemble is of black suede in lattice-work over white kid, and is interesting not only in itself but in the contrast it gives.

• • • •

At last—there is a way to lengthen that adorable last summer's frock that you never could bear to throw away, but just couldn't bring yourself to wear either! And I'll bet you can't guess, either—I couldn't until the chic Parisienne who wore the lengthened frock told me the secret. A matter, my deahs, of an incrusted yoke and girdle, simple to make, and quick, and utterly charming when finished—and described fully in this week's illustrated leaflet which is at the Dare department of The Washington Post just waiting for your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

• • • •

Have you been reading Dare's weekly fashion letters in The Sunday Post? Watch for them.

Au revoir!

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

DO you see any objections to digging dead fish gathered on the shores of Lake Erie into the ground around shrubs? I believe that it is acknowledged that these fish contain great fertilizing properties, so I have been wondering if it would be harmful to feed two or three fish to each shrub on my place?

C. M. B.

Dried fishbones are used to make fertilizer, but to use fish that have just died would mean that your garden would soon be overrun with insects. Also, fish in the fresh state contain no available food properties.

Can I make cuttings from a snowball bush? If this is possible, at what season should I plant the cuttings? LORAIN.

You may start snowball cuttings at this time. Plant cuttings three inches long in fairly rich soil in your garden, or start the cuttings in a cigar box of moist sand. If you use the latter method, place the cuttings, which must be four inches long, in a horizontal position. Then cover them with about an inch of sand. Keep the sand moist, but not wet, while the cuttings are developing roots.

Please tell me what flowers do best in a window-box on the northern side of a house. MRS. WILLIAM J. M. S.

Tuberous-rooted begonias will flower in such a location. Ferns, such as the holly or the pteris variety, and English ivy do well in a box with a northern exposure.

I have a number of tulip and Easter lily bulbs which are still in the pots in which they blossomed. What can I do with them? I inclose a leaf of another Easter plant. Can I coax this plant to live in my apartment? E. P. M.

Better plant your Easter lily bulbs in some sunny place in the open ground. Keep your tulip bulbs in the pots until October, then remove the dead tops and plant them also in some sunny place in the open. I would not select a very conspicuous place, as they will not be likely to produce large flowers the first season after being forced. Growers feel that tulips are not worth saving, but in the second year in the open they usually produce some flowers. I am so sorry, but you evidently neglected to inclose the leaf you mention.

Please tell me why the leaves of my angel-wing begonia fall.

MISS V. C. AND OTHERS.

When any begonia begins to drop its leaves it is a case of too much or too little water, too little fresh air or too much or too little sun. An eastern window, where the plant receives the morning sun, suits a begonia best. If you can not give it an eastern window, try a southern one. If your plant is more than a year old, I would suggest that you take off cuttings at this time and then cut the old plant back to the root. Potted begonias should be on a veranda at this time.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A JUMP RESPONSE TO PARTNER'S TAKEOUT DOUBLE.

IN THE event of a Takeout Double by partner, under the Approach Forcing System, the Responding Hand infers one of three things. First, that the Doubler has a minimum of three honor-tricks in three suits or, second, three honor-tricks in two suits with one good biddable suit, or third, 2½ honor-tricks in two suits, holding a fairly solid "escape suit." The Responding Hand also knows that with no biddable suit and poor support for a major suit bid, even with three honor-tricks his partner would not double.

Knowing these things makes his problem easy. He has several options, one of which is to pass. If there is an intervening bid he is, by that fact, relieved of the responsibility of responding.

First, his response may be a simple Takeout of the Double. This is made, holding anything up to 1½ honor-tricks. Choice of suit will be dealt with later.

Second, holding about two honor-tricks, his response should be a Jump Takeout. This shows top card strength and not suit strength, as the hand given as today's text illustrates. Incidentally, the hand shows the one instance in Contract where it is permissible to make a Jump bid or a non-biddable trump suit. A Jump bid is a bid higher than necessary to respond.

Third, holding more than two honor-tricks and a good trump suit with about four trump tricks, the bid should be a Double Jump Takeout.

The selection of the proper declaration is a needlessly difficult one to many Bridge players. With two four-card suits, one a major and the other a minor, the former should be bid even though the latter is the stronger. With a four-card major and a longer minor, the major suit is given preference to the extent of bidding it when headed by the Knave or a higher card instead of a biddable five-card minor. However, a six-card diamond or club suit should be preferred to a four-card major of average strength. With a choice between two four-card majors, the spade should be bid. The puzzler for the average player is this—a hand having no stopper in opponents' bid, though four cards in the suit, and no other four-card suit. In this case the lowest three-card minor should be bid. Of course, if there is a stopper in opponents' trump, and at least one honor-trick in the hand, no-trump is the answer. Even though holding a stopper, with a biddable four-card major, it is usually better to bid the suit. Should the suit be a minor, one honor-trick in the hand, the no-trump is preferable.

West—Dealer
East and West vulnerable

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♦	Dbl. (1)	Pass	2♥ (2)
Pass (3)	3♥ (4)	Pass	3NT (5)
Pass	4♥	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. The Approach Forcing System prefers to show three honor-tricks by doubling rather than a club bid inferring 1½ honor-tricks.

2. Although he has two sure "stops" in the diamond suit, South should bid two hearts. The bid shows two honor-tricks in the hand and South's length quite probably will be supplemented with strength in North's hand.

3. West realizes that North and South hold about five honor-tricks and his partner's hand may be a blank. To rebid would be to invite a Penalty Double.

4. South's Jump response permits North to bid the six-card minor, if he so desires as he is quite sure the bidding will be kept open, but he has already decided that the hand should be played in hearts so no good purpose would now be served by the club bid.

5. Now South shows his diamond stoppers.

The play of the hand was in no way involved. West opened the diamond King, then played the spade Ace, and continued with the small spade in spite of East's discouraging card. South won with the spade Queen, led the club Ace and then played a small trump to Dummy's Ace. When East's trump Queen fell, the hand was "in." Declarer led a small club, trumping in closed hand with the heart five. The next lead of the diamond ten West would not cover and Dummy threw off a club. The diamond Queen was led. West covered and Dummy trumped. Again a small club was led and trumped. The heart Knave dropped the ten and South had no more losers.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Tricks.

Trick is the common unit of measure, the stuff from which all bids (and plays) are built. There are three distinct kinds of tricks—honors, low cards in four-card or longer suits and low cards in short suits. Low-card tricks are of value at some bids only and not at others. The "ruffing" or short suit kind of a trick, for instance, is of value only in the Dummy and only as a Supporting Hand to partner's trump bid. The same hand if played at notrump, where short suit tricks are non-existent, would have a totally different value.

Again, a low card established in a long side suit might be as good as an Ace at notrump but is worthless if the same hand is played at opponents' trump bid. Only honors are sufficiently stable to be used as a general yardstick for all hands and for all bids.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHILE there have been many encouraging reports of late concerning the quality of film fare that is to be made available to the picture-loving public with the inauguration next month of the new season of 1931-1932, there also come along from time to time brief announcements that are not so good.

For example, a flash from the West Coast indicates that Adolphe Menjou, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Nils Asther, Lester Vail, Gus Shy and Marjorie Rambeau have been dropped from the salary lists by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Limited casting possibilities is said to be the major reason for the releases.

This might be true in the cases of Miss O'Brien-Moore, who has been under contract for the past three months without ever having been given an assignment, and the Messrs. Shy and Asther, who haven't been out in front much, either, but it would seem that places might easily have been found for such competent and popular players as Menjou, Vail and Miss Rambeau. Particularly Miss Rambeau, who has proved herself a character actress and comedienne of the first water in many recent M-G-M productions, notably "Min and Bill," "Inspiration" and "Strangers May Kiss."

But I presume Papa Mayer knows best!

It is probable, by the way, that the pruning process will not stop with the dismissal of the named. Grapevine rumors—and that reminds me, I must call up the man about that keg!—are filtering East to the effect that with option time approaching the fates of Ramon Novarro, Joan Marsh and Kent Douglas also are hanging by a hair. Novarro, as a corroborative for instance, has not been given any future assignment to follow his appearance with Greta Garbo in "Mata Hari."

A few of the boys and girls, however, seem to have no immediate cause for worry. Mary Brian, recently released by Paramount, and Gus Shy, already mentioned in these dispatches—and they're not dispatches at all, I'm Hunt and Pecking them on a piece of ancient sugar machinery they satirically refer to as a typewriter—both have signed with Universal.

Miss Brian will have the lead in "Spirit of Notre Dame" and Mr. Shy crashes the U pay roll as an actor-writer. He was seen here late last season, you will remember, in "America's Sweetheart," at the National.

Tonight is the night for all you junior swimmers. The postponed American Legion water carnival is to be held tonight in the new Crystal Pool out at Glen Echo Park, weather permitting.

Two cups have been donated for the junior events for boys and girls—one by Paul J. McGahan, past Department Commander of the American Legion and a member of the National Press Club; the other by Howard F. Breese, second vice commander of the Legion and secretary to Representative Hall, of New York.

In addition to the meet, the Red Cross will present a life-saving demonstration and exhibition of fancy diving. The feminine sirens of the springboard entered in the fancy diving are Florence Skadding, Onalene Lawrence and Betty Cates; the men, Joe Lyman, John Broddus, Vincent Gomez and Norman Smith.

For the information of prospective spectators, it may be said that the Crystal Pool is illuminated to the brightness of high noon and made doubly attractive by an elaborate system of submarine lighting.

The management of the Earle Theater is engaged in a quest that would have brought joy to the heart of the late President Roosevelt.

To lend point to the observance of "Family Week" at the Earle, beginning Saturday, August 1, it is the desire to have as guests of the house the five largest families resident in Washington's metropolitan area.

There are no trick rules or regulations. All that is necessary is to write a letter to the manager of the Earle Theater, Thirteenth street, between E and F, Washington, D. C., stating the number in family, their names and ages. No letter postmarked after midnight, Monday, August 3, will be considered.

The bill for the new week has been specially assembled with a view to affording a well-rounded and complete entertainment for every member of the household—hence the title, "Family Week."

Depression or no depression, here is one case where the bigger the family, the better the graft!

The chief screen feature at the Earle during "Family Week," incidentally, will be "Newly Rich," Paramount's picturization of Sinclair Lewis' story of "Let's Play King," originally entitled for the screen, "Forbidden Adventure." If you had made up your mind to see "Forbidden Adventure," by the winner of the Nobel Award for Literature, when it came along, this is it.

If you haven't already put on your hat and gone out, the complete line-up for the new week in the downtown, first-run sector is approximately as follows: Columbia, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Politics;" Earle, Louise Fazenda, Edna May Oliver, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl in "Newly Rich," and Steve Freda and Johnny Palace headlining the vaudeville bill; Fox, Warner Baxter and Dorothy Mackaill in "Their Mad Moment," and Panchon & Marco's "Moroccan" Idea, on the stage; Palace, Nancy Carroll and Fredric March in "The Night Angel," and Allan Rogers in the "Keep Cool" revue; R-K-O-Keith's, Constance Bennett in "The Common Law," second week.

Speaking of the Bennetts, it is a lamentable thing that Joan should have fallen victim of the seemingly prevalent epidemic of injuries that are befalling the Circes of the celluloids. First, Evalyn Knapp met with an accident that has confined her to a hospital bed for weeks, then Irene Delroy was thrown from a horse and so seriously injured as to cause her retirement from both stage and screen and now fragile little Joan Bennett, who tackled a vicious mount with which James Kirkwood refused even to be on speaking terms, has sustained a broken hip. The horse must have been "The Hottentot!"

Personally, I have always found it a simple matter to slow down any snorting Bucephalus in the world by putting $2 on his nose!

Son of Gillette Files Notice to Wed Divorcee

Los Angeles, July 29 (A.P.).—A notice of intention to wed was filed today by King C. Gillette, jr., 39, son of the razor magnate, and Mrs. Margaret Wise Proctor, 39-year-old divorcee. Gillette has been married once.

He refused to disclose wedding plans, remarking, "We are applying for this license now, but maybe it is a little premature. We won't get it for about ten days."

THURSDAY JULY 30, 1931 SPORTS

FERRELL, EFFECTIVE IN PINCHES, BLANKS NATS, 6-0

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ON the afternoon that the Goslin-Crowder-Manush deal was announced last season, a newspaper correspondent encountered Goslin on the locker-room steps. "Who else besides yourself is Griff giving to the Browns?" was the ill-conceived question.

The Goose flared up indignantly. "Whaddaya mean, who else besides me? Ain't I worth as much as those two? You mean, who else is Griff gonna get?" Goslin's neck reddened, he took another hitch in his belt, and the reporter retired discreetly from the scene.

But despite Goslin's personal opinion of the trade that rocked Washington fandom, expressions concerning the deal were preponderantly in favor of Washington. It was characterized as a "steal" for Griffith, this release of one outfielder who wasn't doing the club much good, for two recognized stars like Manush and Crowder.

Shires Sale No Link

There followed much speculation as to what steps Griffith would take toward further reimbursing the Browns. The sale of Art Shires to Milwaukee, a St. Louis farm, was hailed as a roundabout method of further payment for Crowder and Manush. But Phil Ball, millionaire owner of the Browns, has consistently denied that Shires' sale had any connection with the deal.

With more than a year having passed and no other deals negotiated by the Nats and the Browns, the Goslin-Crowder-Manush trade must be taken on its face value as an even swap.

But the passing of a year has won the argument for Goslin. The change of venue has again transformed the Goose into a demon slugger, while Manush and Crowder have been veritable millstones about the necks of the Nats and their ambitions.

Goslin Near Top

Goslin on Tuesday hit his fifteenth home run of the season, a pace that he was never able to strike during his ten seasons with the Nats. The St. Louis park with its short right field has enabled the Goose to take advantage of opportunities for homers which he never enjoyed in the spacious Washington stadium. He is hitting for a .357 average and is among the leading five in the league, one of the most feared of all batters.

The passing of a year has spread a new outlook on the trade from a Washington viewpoint. Manush and Crowder are the greatest disappointments on the Washington roster. As baseball values go, the pair of them do not rate with Goslin on this season's performances.

The Nats would be far better off with Goslin this season even if he failed to bat .300. It is easier to carry one player in a slump than to carry two, for the Nats have been burdened by the presence of Crowder and Manush from the start of the season in a degree that can not be appreciated by a mere glance at the averages.

Slumps Tolerated

A star in a slump is a more severe blow to a club than is readily assumed. Manush's case is an example. Manager Johnson would not have tolerated the presence of any other outfielder in the line-up as long. There was always the expectation that Manush would snap out of his batting lethargy. But over a period of two months he failed dismally. An ordinary outfielder would have been lifted from the line-up long ago, but Manush's proven batting prowess kept him in the game in the face of his puerile work at the plate, at the cost of untold victories.

Crowder was the pitcher most depended upon by Johnson this season in view of his sensational work for the Nats last year. But Crowder never reached his 1930 form or the 1928 form that made him the leading American League pitcher. He was pounded from the box with regularity in the first two months of the season, but the fact that he was known as a good pitcher earned him regular turns even in the face of his ineffectiveness. A rookie, getting the same pounding, would never have been tolerated to that extent. Johnson has started Crowder in seventeen games and he has lasted in only seven.

They don't pay off on reputations any more. Ask Griffith.

Some Change Expected in Golf Ball

U. S. G. A. Likely to Keep New Size and Use Old Weight.

Action Expected on Sept. 1; Ball Makers Not Advised.

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, July 29 (A.P.).—Although the United States Golf Association hasn't yet taken any action and won't, before the next session of its ruling powers at Chicago September 1, the impression continues to gain ground that "something" will be done about the "balloon" ball and its alleged evils.

The reports from various places, where golfing ears are close to the ground, seemed to have crystallized today in the prospect that the ball will be changed again, retaining the present size, 1.68 inches in diameter, but with the weight increased from 1.55 to 1.62 ounces, the same as the sphere discarded last January 1.

This 1.68-1.62 ball, in tests, has met with considerable favor among those critical of the present official ball. It has been "bootlegged" in some parts of the country, including Boston. A large golf concern in Ohio has privately manufactured a sufficient quantity to distribute among friends and shipped a batch to the U. S. G. A. for official examination.

Manufacturers Not Advised.

Whatever conclusions the U. S. G. A. may reach, after it has thoroughly canvassed the whole situation, it has not so far advised manufacturers of any pending alterations, in advance of the executive committee meeting at the national amateur championships. Not until this session will it be possible to determine the majority sentiment of the ruling powers, who have been harassed with many conflicting reports and recommendations.

Golf ball makers constantly are conducting experiments, even when the discussion as to its dimensions is not a live topic in and out of the clubhouse. At this season of the year, also, there is generally a manufacturing lull, with the current output completed and operations for the following year put off until October.

Thus, if any changes in the ball's specifications are decided on by the U. S. G. A. in September, there will be plenty of time for the manufacturers to arrange their production accordingly, whether a change is made effective for 1932 or postponed until 1933.

Red Sox and Tigers Split Double-Header

Boston, July 29 (A.P.).—The Red Sox divided a double-header with Detroit today, the visitors winning the second game, 8 to 6, after the Sox had won the opener, 5 to 4, in ten innings. The Red Sox took four of the six games in the series.

Nats Buy Weaver, Oriole Pitching Ace; H. Rice Sent to Baltimore in Second Deal

2 Players and Cash Given for Hurler's Delivery in Fall.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A DEAL which brings Pitcher Monte Weaver here from the Baltimore Orioles was consummated yesterday morning when the Nationals promised a large slice of cash and two players to be delivered later. President Clark Griffith also announced another deal, separate, but which influenced the Orioles in parting with Weaver. It was the outright sale of Harry Rice, outfielder, to the Baltimore club after waivers had been obtained from all big league clubs.

Weaver, a former professor of mathematics at the University of Virginia, who uses his right arm when on the pitching mound, is expected to be of considerable help to the Nationals. He is a strong, husky lad, 25 years old, who has won 14 and lost 8 with the International Leaguers, the second weakest hitting club in the circuit. He made quite an impression on Manager Walter Johnson when he defeated the Nats in a well-pitched exhibition game here just before the regular season opened. Weaver will not report here until the Baltimore Club considers itself out of the International race and can spare him. Weaver's home is in Lansing, N. C.

Only 4 Outfielders Now on Team.

Rice left last night for the Monumental City. His departure leaves the Washington club with but four flychasers, but Johnson says that is all he needs unless one of them is forced out for one reason or another. In this event, Russ Scarritt, on option at Chattanooga, or one or two flychasers at Youngstown, who have Nat strings tied to them, could be quickly recalled to fill in the gap.

Harry Rice first came to the majors

LAUREL CARD SCHEDULED TONIGHT

Rain Forces Postponement; Same Feature Bouts Offered.

LATE afternoon showers delivered a knockout blow to the program of fights scheduled at the Mid City Boxing Club last night at the Laurel Arena, necessitating postponement of the show until tonight.

General Manager Angy Gerrin announced after a conference with the Maryland State Boxing Commission that the same program with the exception of one substitution in a preliminary match would be held over until tonight. Club officials waited until an hour before the scheduled starting time before abandoning hope that the program might be held.

Frank Fullam, former Catholic University star, who won the national amateur middleweight title before he turned professional, yesterday returned the transportation money forwarded by Mid City officials with the explanation that he would be unable to appear for his scheduled bout with Al Moore, hard-hitting Quantico Marine. Whitey Saylor, of Washington, will be substituted for Fullam.

The postponement does not give any indication of marring the card, which is hailed as one of the best ever scheduled in the vicinity of Washington in recent years, with two twin-feature bouts listed. These bring together Buster Brown, of Baltimore, and Mike Sarko, of New York, a pair of lightweights, and Jack McVey, of New York, and Billy Edwards, of Washington, two hard-hitting colored middleweights.

The McVey-Edwards fight overshadows the lightweight bout in point of interest among local ring followers. McVey long has ranked among the foremost in his class and has gained a national reputation that does not belong to Edwards. The latter is in the stable of General Manager Angy Gerrin, of the Mid City Club, and in recent workouts has been concentrating on a heavy-hitting attack.

Mahaffey Yields Only 2 Hits to Browns Until Ninth.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foxx's twentieth home run of the season with one on base in the fourth inning helped the Philadelphia Athletics score their third straight win over the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 2.

Roy Mahaffey, who wilted from the heat in the ninth and had to be relieved, held the Browns to two scattered hits until the last inning. He was relieved by Walberg after issuing a pass and giving up two singles. Mahaffey was credited with his eleventh victory of the year against two defeats.

It was the world champions' sixteenth straight victory on the home grounds.

Common Cash Customers Suffer While Politicians Are Escorted to Ringside

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, July 29.—It was very wrong of James J. Johnston, the prize fight promoter, to place the Hon. Tony Cermak, Mayor of Chicago, and his party of 99 other deserving Democrats behind the eight-ball, so to speak, when they came from Chicago to see the Walker-Sharkey fight in Brooklyn last week. But, in a way, this faux pas was a beautiful stroke of retribution, because that is the sort of treatment which the common customers long ago learned to expect from the promoters of prize fights and theatrical entertainments who customarily see to the pleasure of the politicians first.

Mr. Cermak wired to New York for 100 tickets the day the match was announced and before the tickets were printed, so it is reasonable to assume that his application, backed by appropriate remittance, was, if not the very first, then one of the first orders received.

He and the deserving Democrats with him were entitled to the best 100 seats available when his order arrived, and, on that basis, the least deserving Democrat in the Chicago party should have been given a seat no farther away than the second row. Yet when Mr. Cermak went to the ball yard that night he was shown to a place a long way from the ring and well outside that reservation which custom allots to those whom the reporters scan for familiar names to be used under the heading, "Among those present were——".

As a politician Mr. Cermak was affronted, and as a customer he was denied his rights.

The consternation of the Tammany Hall Democrats as they fluttered around the indignant Mr. Cermak, explaining that a deplorable mistake had been made and trying to tug him out into the aisle by main strength to mend the error has never been lavished on a common customer similarly mistreated. The common customer, by the experience of years,

Mack's Use of Rookies Credits Report He'll Scrap Club's Stars

NEW YORK, July 29 (U.P.).—Rumors that Connie Mack plans to break up his Philadelphia Athletics, if the club does the expected and wins a third consecutive world's championship are given credence by Mack's use of substitute players in recent games.

With the 1931 American League pennant virtually clinched, Manager Mack is making frequent use of his reserve players and there are strong indications that he plans to use Infielders McNair and Williams, Outfielders Cramer and Moore and Pitchers Mahaffey and MacDonald as regulars in 1932.

According to reports, Mack will be satisfied with establishing an all-time record of three consecutive world championships and then will dispose of such stars as Lefty Grove, Al Simmons, George Earnshaw and the lesser luminaries, Joe Boley, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas. This breaking up of the Athletics would do away with the runaway races which have lessened American League gate receipts in recent years and again would give Connie Mack an opportunity to show his skill as a builder of teams.

Four of Mack's youngsters—Moore, Williams, McNair and Mahaffey—saw action today as the Athletics defeated St. Louis, 4 to 2, to increase their first place advantage to twelve full games.

Seabright Net Play Brings Thrills

Mrs. Jessup Reaches Semifinals, Beating Miss Morrill.

Doeg, Near Defeat, Is Victor Over Tidball; to Meet Vines.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., assumed the role of outstanding star today as the third day of play in the forty-fourth annual Seabright invitation tennis tournament carried the action up to the final round of the men's singles and the semifinals of the other events.

Eleven years after gaining a leg on the Seabright bowl, Mrs. Jessup returned to score an unexpected victory over Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., America's second ranking player, in the quarter-finals today. The scores were 9—7, 4—6, 6—1.

Miss Morrill to Meet Mrs. Moody.

The upset victory earned the popular Delaware player the right to oppose Mrs. Helen Wills Moody in one singles semifinal tomorrow.

The day was filled with stirring tennis. Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and Mrs. L. A. Harper, first ranking American woman player, won their matches and the right to meet each other in the semifinal round, and John Hope Doeg, former Californian, now living in Newark, N. J., who holds the national men's title, and Ellsworth Vines, jr., of Pasadena, Calif., qualified to fight it out Friday for the men's singles championship.

Miss Jacobs was too good for Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kans., who lost, 6—0, 6—2, but Mrs. Harper was thoroughly extended by another Californian, Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, before winning, 9—7, 6—3.

Mrs. Moody, in winning from Baroness Giacomo Levi, of New York, 6—1, 6—0, kept up her remarkable pace of yesterday, when she also triumphed with the loss of only one game. In all, the former American and Wimbledon champion had played only 54 minutes of tennis in gaining the semifinal round.

Doeg and Vines Both Extended.

In the men's semfinal matches, both Doeg and Vines, who is eighth in the national ranking, were pushed to the limit, the former by 19-year-old Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, and Vines by the fifth player on the national ranking list, Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans. They will clash in the five-set final Friday.

Doeg was forced to play three sets before getting the verdict over Tidball by scores of 4—6, 6—3, 8—6, while Vines overcame Sutter 6—2, 11—9.

Benge Turns Back Cubs, 4-0; Phils Even Series

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Ray Benge stopped the Cubs with a shutout ball today, 4 to 0, and gave Philadelphia an even break in the four-game series. He gave the Cubs but five scattered blows, only one of which was for an extra base.

SAKS NINE SEEKS TO EVEN SERIES WITH DIXIES SUNDAY

District Title At Stake in Contest

Jones Will Attempt to Clinch Crown for Dixie Pigs.

Mannix in Box for Saks in Play-Off in City League.

BENT on obtaining revenge for the 10-2 drubbing received at the hands of the Dixie Pigs last Sunday in the first game of the three-game series for the unlimited championship of the Capital City League, the Saks Clothiers are diligently preparing for their second meeting with the Pigs on the South Ellipse diamond at 3 p. m. Sunday.

The Clothiers are working out daily in an attempt to iron out the wrinkles in their defensive work which caused their downfall in the first game. The infield, usually one of the most dependable, went completely to pieces against the Pigs, placing the burden directly on the shoulders of Charley Mannix, and Charley was none too good.

Dick Mothershead is confident that the Clothiers will come through Sunday, especially as they will be playing on a diamond they are more familiar with. Dick makes no attempt at an alibi because of the diamond the first game was played on. The ground was also new to the Dixies and the teams shared alike in what "breaks" there were. Mannix may attempt a comeback against the first sandlot team to beat him this year, but if he does not go on the mound it will be Bill Payne who will do the pitching for the local team.

Manager Hugh Waldrop, of the Pigs, may send "Lefty" Jones after his second win, which will clinch the District Capital City League title and bring the team face to face with the Takoma Tigers for the Metropolitan championship. Roberts will probably do the hurling if Jones is not ready for duty.

The Pigs are making no special preparations for Sunday's game as all of the players feel that they are too experienced for their younger rivals. No air of overconfidence pervades the atmosphere around Berwyn, however, as Saks bears the reputation of a fighting team and fighters can come back with a disastrous punch.

TWO thousand five hundred years ago a tiny seed settled upon the top of a fallen redwood tree that had toppled to the ground when it had reached its 2,000th birthday. As the seed sprouted and grew upon the rotted bark, the tiny roots straddled the trunk and connected with soil on either side. At the beginning of the Christian era it had become a flourishing stripling some 600 years old! As the years passed, it gradually developed into a mature redwood, almost completely enveloping the log that had mothered it as a seed. Together both log and tree represent 4,500 years.

Recently the log was sawed up and converted into timber. Most of the wood, after 45 centuries, was found to be still sound.

Paraphrasing the old and familiar nursery rhyme, Mr. Jesse F. Gelders in Popular Science Monthly writes, "'Where are you going my pretty maid?' . . . 'I'm going to milk the cow,' she said. 'I'm going to milk her not only of milk, but of unbreakable cups and saucers to serve it in, and eyeglass rims, beads, fountain pens, massage cream, glue, and waterproofing for paints.'"

Not long ago, scientists found that a substance called "casein" was contained in skim milk. Since then this substance has been used in the manufacture of many and varied commercial articles such as those listed above.

YEOMANS SURPRISES TO GAIN VIRGINIA STATE SEMIFINALS

Smith Beaten, 7-5, 6-0, by D. C. Star

Ex-Virginia U. Ace Victim of Foe's Soft Lobs.

Hess, Taylor Survive; Mulheisen-Mangan to Play Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 29.—Jake Hess, jr., of Austin, Tex.; H. Earle Taylor, of University of Texas, and Edgar Yeomans, of Washington, D. C., advanced to the semifinals in the men's singles of the Virginia State open tennis championship on the Casino courts by scoring decisive victories in interesting matches.

The other quarter-final match between Dolf Mulheisen, of California, and Tom Mangan, of Washington, D. C., was postponed until tomorrow.

The machine-like precision with which Yeomans ran through C. Alphonso Smith, jr., former University of Virginia star, was the surprise of the day's play. Yeomans' soft lobs cut the corners of the court for repeated placements, and every effort of Smith's to get to the net was met by a slashing, passing shot well out of reach. Yeomans made few errors during the match, winning the first set, 7—5, and running out at 6—0 in the second set.

Hess Continues Brilliant Play.

Hess continued to display the brilliant brand of tennis that has brought him into prominence in recent weeks to gain a 6—1, 6—2 victory over Ted Easton, captain of the Leland Stanford University Tennis Team. Easton was unable to cope with Hess' deceptive forehand drives to the far corners, which were intermingled with perfectly executed cross-court placements.

Taylor outplayed Ruck throughout their match, winning in straight sets, 6—1 and 6—4.

Hess and Taylor will meet tomorrow afternoon in one of the three-out-of-five sets semifinals, while the winner of the Mangan-Mulheisen quarter-final will meet Yeomans in the other semifinals on Friday afternoon.

Summaries:

MEN'S SINGLES (quarter-final round)—Hess defeated Easton, 6—1, 6—2; Taylor defeated Rudy, 6—1, 6—4; Yeomans defeated Smith, 7—5, 6—0.

MEN'S DOUBLES (first round)—Mulheisen and Robinson defeated Talbott and Cushing, 6—0, 6—1; Holden and Connelley defeated Rudy and Keiles, 12—10, 11—9; Hess and Taylor defeated Carter and Shields, 6—3, 6—3; Spicer and Carrington defeated Kendall and Bates, 6—1, 6—7, 6—3; Smith and Easton, bye; Mangan and Yeomans, bye.

WOMEN'S SINGLES (second round)—Mrs. Delloyd Thompson defeated Louise Peterson, 6—0, 6—2; Capy Mason defeated Margaret Anderson, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1; Mary Bartlett Gibb defeated Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman, 6—0, 6—1; Ellen Bates defeated Mary Anderson, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3.

Diamond Dust

THE Southwest Market Baseball Team hung a 10-6 defeat on the Northeast Market representatives on the Camp Meigs field yesterday before a large throng of spectators.

The Hitless Wonders won their eighth consecutive game yesterday, downing the Seaman Gunners, 12 to 9, on the Navy Yard diamond. Riegelman starred for the winners.

Ciro's Villagers are seeking a game for Sunday with a strong unlimited team. Manager Buruto especially challenges the Majestic Radios, St. Mary's Celtics and Skinker Bros. Eagles. He can be reached at Metropolitan 2497 after 7 p. m.

Jim McNamara's Jewish Community Center unlimiteds will be after their eight straight win when they tackle "Wee Willie" Glascoe's revamped Griffith-Blue Coals on the Center's new field at 3 p. m., Sunday.

The Fussel-Young Juniors are seeking a game to be played on their home diamond tomorrow at 5 p. m. Business Manager Mathews can be reached at Adams 10135.

NATS BUY WEAVER, BALTIMORE PITCHER

in 1922, when the Browns bought him from the "Kitty" League. He failed to impress and was sent back to the "bushes," being recalled the following season. He remained in St. Louis through the 1927 season, went to Detroit in a trade and played there until May 30, when he went to the Yankees in the trade which sent Pitcher Waite Hoyt and Shortstop Mark Koenig to the Tigers. He finished the season in the "big town" and the Nationals obtained him via the waiver route last winter.

Harry was of considerable help to Manager Walter Johnson early this season but showed a slump both afield and at bat recently. He participated in 47 games as a National, was at bat 162 times and hit safely on 43 occasions, four of his blows being doubles and six triples. He boasts a stick mark of .265.

The Indians end their series here this afternoon, with Mel Harder expected to hurl for them and Carl Fischer due to get the Washington mound assignment. As the Nats have won two out of three in this set, they need a victory today to give them the odd game.

Tomorrow is an open date on the schedule and then the world's champion Athletics will be taken on in four games. Single contests will be staged in Griffith Stadium Saturday and Sunday, when banner crowds are expected, while the other two games will be played as a Monday doubleheader in the Quaker City.

CLELAND CUP TOURNEY TODAY

Sports Scribes Book Annual Divot-Digging Contest.

GOLFING sportswriters sharpened their niblicks and dusted off their putters yesterday in preparation for the annual assault today on the Cleland Cup, emblematic of all that is worth while in a golfing sense to the city's sport scriveners.

The War College course again is the scene of the annual tournament, which now has a history of eight years since sponsored by Capt. John R. D. Cleland, former athletic officer at the War College.

Like all good tournaments, the Cleland Cup tourney will have a defending champion in the person of Chuck Egan, of the Star.

The tourney will be 18 holes medal play, all strokes to be counted. Heading a revolt against the U. S. G. A., the sportswriters have barred the balloon ball, which has affected their putting on the greens, but improved their lies in the clubhouse. The handicaps:

Lewis Atchison (Post), 18; Ray Bryan (Times), scratch; H. G. Byrd (Star), 24; Al Costello (Herald), 15; Frank Cronan (Herald), 7; Chuck Egan (Star), 6; Thomas Doerer (Star), 5; Jack Espey (Post), 20; Maury Fitzgerald (Herald), 3 plus); Harry Frye (Star), 10; Ed Fuller (Star), 24; George Garner (Herald), 24; Walter Haight (Post), 14; W. H. Rosedale and Municipal Teams Tie in Tank Meet

MORE than 700 boys, representing 35 playgrounds, swam and splashed in the Airport Pool yesterday for individual and team honors. It was the largest swimming meet ever held in Washington or vicinity, and as a fitting climax to a thrilling contest Rosedale and the Municipal Pools tied for team point honors, 37 to 37.

Other point scorers were, Emery, 13; Georgetown, 13; Hamilton, 5; Montrose, 3; Bloomingdale, 1. The showing of the Emery boys was the big surprise of the meet. Composed entirely of 70 and 90 pound boys, the Emery youngsters about cleaned up in the first-mentioned class and did well in the 90.

Whole Pool Needed For Meet.

The first group of youngsters reached the pool at 9 o'clock; and by 9:45, fifteen minutes before the meet was scheduled to start, Keith Kiggins, general manager of the pool, decided that the playground youngsters were reaching such large numbers that they would require the entire tank in which to perform, and for a while prospective bathers willingly took seats in the gallery to witness the well-conducted races.

James Bates and Thornton Burns, both of the Municipal Pools, were the individual stars of the meet. Competing in the unlimited class, Bates and Burns tied for first place in the 30-yard back stroke and Burns tied again in the 60-yard free style, this time with Lawrence Buscher, Georgetown. Burns and Bates were also on the winning relay team, and the latter, in addition, scored first place in the 30-yard breast stroke.

70-POUND CLASS.

30-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Ernest Houser (Emery); second, Maurice Curtin (Emery); third, Byron Carrol (Rosedale). Time, 20 seconds.

120-YARD RELAY—Won by Emery (M. Curtin, R. Curtin, J. Boyle, E. Houser); second, Rosedale (B. Carroll, H. Dering, D. O'Connor, J. Kraemer); third, Georgetown (V. Gossage, C. Harding, J. Poole, T. Harrison). Time, 1 minute 30 seconds.

90-POUNDS CLASS.

30-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Albert Greenwall (Hamilton); second, Andrew Farrell (Emery); third, Mathew Kerin (Georgetown). Time, 18 seconds.

30-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Paul Wilson (Rosedale); second, Roland Burns (Muny Pool); third, James Roland (Bloomingdale). Time, 22 3-5 seconds.

120-YARD RELAY—Won by Emery (A. Greenwall, A. Farrell, L. Douglas, J. Roland); second, Rosedale (P. Wilson, W. Miller, J. Vermillion, R. Collins); third, Montrose (C. Wells, W. Somerville, B. Edmonston, C. Saunders). Time, 1 minute 20 seconds.

115-POUND CLASS.

60-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Raymond Moore (Rosedale); second, Charles Sacrey (Rosedale); third, George Cunningham (Montrose). Time, 38 seconds.

30-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Gilbert Bates (Muny Pool); second, Buddy Dering (Rosedale); third, Vernon Hayes (Rosedale). Time, 21 seconds.

30-YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Billy Hickey (Muny Pool); second, Charles Sacrey (Rosedale); third, George Cunningham (Montrose). Time, 19 1-5 seconds.

120-YARD RELAY—Won by Rosedale (C. Sacrey, R. Moore, B. Dering, V. Hayes); second, Municipal Pool (B. Hickey, F. May, L. Clagett, G. Bates); third, Georgetown (F. Brown, F. Beamer, D. Hearty, L. Dodson). Time, 1 minute 13 seconds.

UNLIMITED CLASS.

60-YARD FREE STYLE—First, tie between Lawrence Everett Buscher (Georgetown) and Thornton Burns (Muny Pool); third, Robert Dumford (Rosedale); fourth, Robert Hogan (Georgetown). Time, 36 2-5 seconds.

30-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by James Bates (Muny Pool); second, Frank Warner (Georgetown); third, James Forney (Georgetown). Time, 19 3-5 seconds.

30-YARD BACK STROKE—First, tie between Jimmy Bates (Muny Pool) and Thornton Burns (Muny Pool); third, John Bonnett (Muny Pool); fourth, Joseph Branzell (Georgetown). Time, 20 seconds.

120-YARD RELAY—Won by Municipal Pool (W. Taylor, J. Bonnett, J. Bates, T. Burns); second, Rosedale (B. Simmonds, D. Hayes, P. Cooper, R. Dunford); third, Georgetown (L. Buscher, F. Warner, R. Hogan, J. Molyneaux). Time, 1 minute 11 2-5 seconds.

SPEARS GETS CHANCE AT STEELE

Replaces Znoski on Mat Capital Card Tomorrow.

FRANK SPEARS, who carries well over 200 pounds of beef on his ponderous frame, will replace Steve Znoski as "Ironman" Ray Steele's opponent on Promoter Joe Turner's weekly stretch and struggle show to be presented at the auditorium tomorrow night.

Znoski is reported to have sprained a tonsil in working out for his match with Steele and will be unable to appear.

The remaining bouts are unchanged, with Bennie Ginsberg, of New York, and Doc Wilson grunting through the semiwind-up match. Karl (Rub 'is Back Karl) Pozello and John Maxos, the original boogy man, will precede Wilson and Ginsberg on the mat. The other two preliminaries will see Son Jennings and Tiger Nelson rough it out, followed by Tiny Roebuck and Charley Plumber.

SYKES HURLS ONE-HIT GAME

With Sykes allowing only one hit, the Kanawha Athletic Club nine defeated the Engineers yesterday, 6 to 0. Tomorrow the Kanawhas meet the Auths on diamond No. 9 at 5 o'clock.

The Skinker Eagles snapped the Fredericksburg Elks' thirteen-game winning streak with a 9-1 victory over the latter on their home diamond yesterday. Cal Young held the Elks to five hits, while Demarest with four hits was the leading slugger for the Eagles.

TRAINING MOSQUITOES.

THE influence of Mussolini is so strong in Italy that it flavors the point of view and the proceedings of scientists and sanitarians, even as though they were politicians.

Malaria has long been a major economic problem in Italy. There are great historians who say that the glory that was Rome went up in smoke because malaria destroyed the vigor of the Romans. Of course, this is denied, but what theory about the cause of the fall of Rome is not denied?

About a generation ago Italy tried to stage a comeback. Among the procedures adopted by their statesmen was malaria control. A part of that control was what they termed "human bonification" and a part of their bonification plan was to have the state make and distribute quinine. The poor were given all they needed and the rich got it at cost. The scheme worked only fairly well.

Then came the spirit of Mussolini over the land. If a thing was good for man or beast it must be tried, regardless of opposition. The scientists decided that malaria control must center on the mosquito. Since control of mosquito breeding was difficult and costly they would change the taste of the mosquitoes. They must teach their mosquitoes to love the smell of cows, and the taste of cow's blood, and, conversely, to lose their appetite for human blood and to be nauseated by the odors of man.

The matter came to be talked about abroad. A great international scientific society sent two scientists, Drs. L. W. Hackett and A. Misseroli to investigate. They report that the plan is working. Some malarial regions have become more malarial. The malarial mosquitoes are now feeding on cows' blood and are letting human beings alone. This is resulting in control of human malaria in certain regions.

It was noted in the beginning of the experiment that mosquitoes could be trained to bite canaries. After a few generations the experimenters had a breed of mosquitoes that would not bite human beings. The experiment was extended to cows. After a few generations mosquitoes on trial had bills strong enough to penetrate a cow's hide readily and their appetite was altogether for cow blood. The plan, as applied, consists in screening malaria mosquitoes away from people as much as possible, but giving them the freest possible access to cows in warm stables. After a few generations there are no more mosquitoes that insist on human blood and the prevailing type is the cow blood variety. The control of mosquito breeding is of secondary importance in this plan.

DEVELOPING OF CHEST.

L. A. writes:

1. I am a girl 20 years of age, and I was told because my chest was not very developed that I would probably have tuberculosis some day. Is that true?

2. Is there any way in which I could develop my chest?

REPLY.

1. There is some proof that a person with a badly developed chest resists consumption poorly

2. Yes, by rowing, swimming, carrying weights on the head.

NO HARM IN ALUMINUM.

K. H. writes: I wish to know if you think cooking in cast aluminum is harmful to one's health and if it could possibly cause cancer.

REPLY.

It does not cause cancer and it is otherwise harmless.

SEEING "BLACK WAVES."

Mrs. E. E. writes: What would be the cause of "black waves" before the eyes? When looking off in the distance, or even at objects close I experience or, more accurately, I see "waves."

REPLY.

Nine times out of ten they are of no consequence. The more they are noticed the more troublesome they are. Neurasthenics enjoy worrying over them. Fatigue is sometimes a cause. So is eyestrain. Some cases are due to glaucoma and other important eye diseases.

STOCK PRICES YIELD TO STEEL'S DECLINE

Principal Shares Drop Two to Nine Points; Trading Is Still Dull.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—This was emphatically "Steel day" on the stock market. The poor earnings statement returned by the leading factor in that basic industry, more than the dividend reduction, influenced sharply lower prices in equity issues of all descriptions. Net losses ranged from 2 to 9 points in principal shares.

Generally speaking, however, trading was dull. Offerings were rather heavy at the opening, but by noon the worst of the squall was over and prices settled down to a quiet horizontal movement. Shortly after midday signs of improvement appeared which eventually brought a rally of a point or two from the lows, but the market reacted again at the close. Sales, which approximated 1,000,000 shares at 12 o'clock, amounted to only 1,573,955 for the full five hours.

The steel news monopolized Wall street's attention. It was pointed out that the dividend and salary cuts made by the U. S. Steel directors were constructive moves toward retrenchment in view of the severe drop in operating profits. At the same time, the decision to reduce was taken as an admission that the business outlook, at least for the steel industry, was none too promising.

Ingot Output Increases.

One surprising development was the increase in ingot production this week. Iron Age placed operations at a 32 per cent rate compared with 30 a week ago, an unusual occurrence during a midsummer lull. It appeared the gain was due to structural contracts, for both the automobile makers and the railroads have reduced their requirements. The former industry gives promise of further slackness; Ford plants are closing for August and other motor car manufacturers are pointing toward a dull month.

U. S. Steel common was the guidepost for the day's stock market. Opening 5⅛ lower, the industrial leader added a couple of points to its decline, firmed slightly in the afternoon, but closed at the low of 84⅝, off 7¾. The year's minimum, made early in June, is 83⅛. Part of the late unsettlement was due to considerable pressure against Bethlehem Steel, which reacted more than 6 points to 34½, the lowest quotation on record for the present shares. Bethlehem's directors meet for dividend action tomorrow. The earnings report is expected to show a second quarter deficit, but Wall street fears some payment will be made on the common.

Except in a few instances, general losses were more moderate. Auburn closed 9 lower and Nickel Plate 9½, while Atchison & International Business Machines were down 6. For American Can, American Telephone, Case, New York Central and Allied Chemical the decline amounted to around 5 points; for Baltimore & Ohio, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, International Telephone, Westinghouse and North American it was 2 to 3.

Reports Are Negative.

Midweek statistical reports were negative. Car loadings were down slightly; electric power production, although seasonally higher than a week ago, compared unfavorably with 1930, and crude oil production registered a gain, due to operations in east Texas. Copper metal was quoted at the lowest price on record.

There was, however, a more cheerful note in the monthly trade figures issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. June business of wholesalers in this district was off 10 per cent from last year, the smallest year-to-year drop since February, 1930. Total June sales of chain stores were higher than 1930, although adjustment to a daily basis revealed a small decline. Department store volume increased, but partly to an extra selling day last month. Making allowance for this, the loss in the daily rate was the smallest from a year ago since March.

Bullish Canadian crop and weather advices gave wheat a hand and final quotations were up three-eighths to three-quarters. Corn, aside from July, gained more than a cent, the cotton decline was 7 to 11 points.

Sterling exchange held firm above the gold point in Paris and New York. There was a small advance in the German mark here, as well as in the French franc.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Skyrocket action of the corn market today took prices swiftly up as a maximum of 10 cents a bushel. Stop-loss buying orders were chiefly instrumental in whirling quotations skyward, revealing belated efforts to acquire supplies needed to meet a huge shortage of corn to fill contracts that call for deliveries within the next two days. In some quarters, Government financed agencies were credited with at least a part of the sensational buying.

Failure of expected rains, together with reports of widespread corn crop deterioration, added to the soaring of prices.

Corn closed feverish, ranging from 1 cent to 9¼ cents higher. Wheat, ⅝ to ⅞ up; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ advance, and provisions showing 2 cents to 15 cents gain.

Unsettled July corn contracts were officially announced at 6,397,000 bushels, an amount much larger than usual so late in the month. It was in the July quotations that the sterling buying took place. Leading traders who hold the July contracts which remain outstanding have heretofore accepted delivery on more than 5,000,000 bushels, and today took possession of 840,000 bushels additional which had been tendered. Much of the 540,000 bushels thus acquired was in carload lots on railroad tracks instead of in warehouses, an uncommon but valid delivery on the last three days of any month.

Implications of storage shortage and of other difficulties both for buyers and sellers of corn were thus emphasized, putting the market under further strain, and accelerating the hurried upward flight of prices as the day drew to an end. Traders who were short of July corn found it extremely difficult to consummate purchases, offerings being scarce to a degree seldom met with. In the final dealings when tension was most acute, the market fluctuated rapidly ½ cent or more between trades that were almost simultaneous.

Wheat and oats sympathized with corn strength. Crop reports from spring wheat territory both domestic and Canadian were decidedly adverse, and tended to show that estimates of yield would be further curtailed.

Provisions responded to upturns of hog values and of cereals.

Closing indications: Wheat—July, 54, offers; September 50⅛, 52¼@52⅜, December, 54⅞@55, 56⅛@56¼. Corn—July, 58, 77½; September, 48¾, 53¼; December, 43½, 46¾@46¾.

Cash grain:

WHEAT—No. 1 red, 50½; No. 2 hard, 50¾; No. 3 hard (smutty), 47; No. 2 yellow, hard, 49@49¾; No. 2 mixed, 49¼@49½.

CORN—No. 1 mixed, 60¼; No. 1 yellow, 59@62¾; No. 2 white (new), 22¼@22¾; No. 2 white (old), 25@25¾.

PERSONAL FINANCE

SESSION IS CALLED

Convention Set in Capital for October 20; Program to Cover Wide Field.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The first call has been issued for the annual convention of the American Association of Personal Finance Companies to be held in this city October 20-23. The convention will be held at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The general theme will be "Consumer Credit and Personal Finance." The program of addresses and discussions will explore the general field of consumer credit with appropriate attention to the part personal finance plays in this branch of the national credit structure.

Speakers of national distinction will discuss some of the more important credit problems affecting the consumer in the light of experience gained during the business recession. The effects of the depression will be appraised and competent business authorities will undertake to anticipate the future course of important business developments.

Aims of Program.

Throughout the program there will be an effort to draw upon the viewpoints and experience of other related consumer credit agencies in behalf of our own business.

The more specific practical problems of personal finance will be discussed in a series of round tables under arrangements which will open discussion to all delegates in the convention.

The Mayflower Hotel will again be the official headquarters for the convention. The arrangements for entertainment at the convention will include a visit to historic Alexandria, Va., sightseeing about the Capital, golf, tennis, music and dancing. Special entertainment arrangements are being made in behalf of the ladies.

Rare Opportunity Provided.

This year's convention promises an exceptional opportunity to establish more firmly the important place personal finance has won among the service industries of the country.

The July meeting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters will be held at Indian Spring Golf Club today.

A luncheon will be served. The meeting will be informal and there will be no speakers. The afternoon will be devoted to golf.

Gas Light's Net Increases.

An increase of $12,048.66 in total net income over the same month last year is disclosed in the June statement filed yesterday by the Washington Gas Light Co. with the Public Utilities Commission. For the first six months the gain was more than $182,000.

Operating revenues were $451,419.52, compared with $435,700.55 in June, 1930. The operating income for last month totaled $215,253.75 against $138,377.70 last year. Operating revenues for the first half of the year came to $3,293,176.39, compared with $2,982,186.13 for the same period a year ago. Operating expenses were $1,958,736.39 in 1931, and $1,882,476.52 in the first half of 1930.

Making deductions for interest payments and other charges, the corporation had a total incorporate income of $729,628.08 for the first six months, compared with $544,290.48 last year.

A slight increase in earnings for June was reported yesterday to the Utilities Commission by the Georgetown Gas Co. The net income for the month was $9,636.09 against $9,109.75 for the same period in 1930.

BONDHOLDER JOINS WARDMAN PROPERTY FORECLOSURE SUIT

Torgeson Charges Halsey, Stuart Holds $1,100,000 From Corporation.

ACCOUNTING OF FUNDS ASKED BY INTERVENOR

Asserts Present Receivers of Corporation Should Be Removed.

Intervening in the suit of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. to force foreclosure of a $16,000,000 bond issue secured on ten local Wardman properties, Alfred C. Torgeson, a bondholder, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to make Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Hambleton & Co. parties defendant. He asked that present receivers for Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., be removed.

Mr. Torgeson, who said he owns $24,000 of the company's bonds, requested that the two New York investment houses be required to make an accounting of the money coming into their hands from the sale of the corporation's bonds.

Charges Million Withheld.

He charged that on foundation of the old Wardman Construction Co., Inc., allegedly "insolvent and without any credit in the city of Washington," a financial structure of more than $18,000,000 was reared, through corporations set up to reorganize and refinance the old company.

The petitioner charged that Halsey, Stuart & Co. received and withheld from Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., one of the new companies, $1,100,000, in connection with the sale of bonds, and he asked that this be paid over.

Receivers Held Disqualified.

Removal of receivers for Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., Joseph P. Tumulty, Thomas D. Carson and Julius I. Peyser, alleging they are friendly to the New York banking interests, was asked in an amended bill filed last week by Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury in the Roosevelt administration. Mr. Shaw's amendment was to a suit filed July 2, and dismissed eight days later.

In Mr. Torgeson's petition, filed yesterday through Attorneys Carlin & Carlin, George Gordon Battle, Leslie C. Garnett and Jerome Simmons, it was held the present receivers are disqualified because "they were selected by agreement" with the two New York banking houses, Naming of attorneys for Halsey, Stuart & Co. as counsel for the receivers also was criticized.

18 Physicians Given Licenses to Practice

Eighteen physicians were issued licenses yesterday to practice in the District after having passed an examination before the District Commission on the Licensing and Practice of the Healing Arts.

The physicians are Julius Daniel Damien, Joseph Dessoff, Benjamin Golden, Edward Stanton Crisp, Spencer Vincent Meade, Jerome John Krick, John Richard Cavanagh, Weston Bruner, jr., William Howard Paine, William Shambaugh Detwiler, Raymond Charles Kirchner, Thomas William Mattingly, Aaron S. Schwartzman, William Cecil Goines, Saul Schwartzbach, John Manley Orem, Samuel Lester Tabb and Alma Jane Speer.

Rites Tomorrow For Walter Smith

Secretary to "Uncle Joe" Cannon to Be Buried in This City.

Walter Le Roy Smith, civic leader, broker and former secretary to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, who died Tuesday at his home in Winter Haven, Fla., will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Rock Creek Cemetery following funeral services from the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. William T. Betts, 4911 Forty-sixth street northwest, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Smith apparently was poisoned by the fumes of insect powder which had been placed in his house while he was staying here with his family. He left about ten days ago for Florida on a business trip. Prior to that time, he had been visiting at his sister-in-law's home for about seven weeks.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Walter Le Roy Smith, jr., 16, and a daughter, Betsy, 11. Both are attending a summer camp in West Virginia.

RITES FOR T. I. TRUNDLE.

Service for Stage Union Leader Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral service for Thomas I. Trundle, 54, 3511 T street northwest, business agent of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, who died at his home Tuesday night after a short illness, will be at his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by cremation at Joseph Lee's funeral parlors.

Mr. Trundle had been connected with theaters here all his life and was descended from a famous backstage family. Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Darrell and Kenneth, and two daughters, Kathryn and Margaret.

RITES FOR F. G. WRENN.

Funeral Will Be Tomorrow; Interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Frank Gale Wrenn, 55, 411 Quincy street northwest, a lifelong resident of Washington, died yesterday morning at his residence after a short illness.

Mr. Wrenn had been connected with Mayer & Co. the last nine years and previous to that time had been a buyer for Julius Lansburgh's furniture store, with which he had been connected 27 years. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Frank, and a daughter, Isobelle.

Funeral service will be at the residence tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, followed by interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

DOLL SHOW HONOR WINNERS

E STREET EXTENSION WILL TAKE 3 WEEKS

District Workers Plug Ears From Noise Made by Steam Shovel.

Employes of the District Building, especially those with offices fronting toward Pennsylvania avenue, held their hands to their ears yesterday as a steam shovel tore away the lawn for the extension of E street. Officials who attempted to carry on a conversation were forced to shout at times to be heard.

The work is proceeding rapidly, however, and the street will be completed within three weeks, according to Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the highway department. While the opinion has been freely expressed that the street will seriously mar the appearance of the District Building, Capt. Whitehurst believes that the layout will look well when completed.

Both of the driveway entrances from Pennsylvania avenue will be paved and the pavement at the foot of the front steps will be extended 14 feet to the street. The thoroughfare will not cause any of the trees or shrubbery to be torn down, nor will it interfere with the sidewalk fringing Pennsylvania avenue.

Between Fifteenth and Thirteenth-and-One-half streets, E street will be 86 feet wide and will carry two-way traffic. Between Thirteenth-and-One-half street and Pennsylvania avenue it will be widened at present to only 38 feet and will carry only east-bound traffic.

Fifteenth street is being widened to 70 feet between Pennsylvania avenue and Constitution avenue, and the west side of Fourteenth street is being repaired but not widened.

Radio Will Feature Return of "Envoys"

Capital Boy and Girl Are to Appear on Columbia Program Monday.

The return of America's "Envoys of Friendship" will be celebrated in a special program over the Columbia Broadcasting System next Monday from 3 to 3:30 p. m. (E. S. T.).

Dorothy Skirm and Thomas J. Hayes, whose essays on the typical American girl and boy won them the right to represent the Nation's Capital on a trip of good will to England and France, will tell of the adventures of the party of eleven girls and boys while abroad.

The program, which takes the place for the day of Columbia's weekly broadcast of music by the United States Army Band, will open with the band playing the music of the three nations. Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association, which sponsored the essay contest and good will tour, will introduce the youthful speakers, and Hayes will, after speaking himself, present Miss Skirm. Each of the essayists is 17 years old.

GREENLEAF SCHOOL FIGHT TO CONTINUE

Southwest Citizens Seek to Prevent Building's Use for Colored.

Fight of residents of the southwest section to prevent Greenleaf School from being turned over to colored students will be continued until every possible argument against the proposal has been exhausted, it was learned yesterday from Mrs. Clara Neligh, secretary of Neighborhood House.

Representatives of the Southwest will submit to school authorities tomorrow a report showing results of a census of white school children in the section. Figures will show there are enough white children in the section to warrant retention of the Greenleaf School, it was said.

The figures will be compared with others assembled by school statisticians. School officials have contended there are more colored children in the section than white.

Tomorrow was set last June by the Board of Education as the date on which final consideration would be given the transfer. A complication has arisen through the fact that the majority of board members are out of the city, preventing a quorum.

Southwest residents will ask that board members be allowed to vote on the matter by mail. Otherwise they will approach the proposed transfer from another angle, they said. The nature of this alternative strategy will not be revealed until it is made known what school authorities intend to do about the matter.

Vacant Triangle Areas To Be Open for Parking

The acute parking situation downtown has prompted the Treasury Department to lease temporarily some of the areas which are sites for new buildings in the Federal program. It was announced yesterday that bids to operate the two squares bounded by Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, Constitution avenue and C streets will be accepted until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Frank A. Birgfeld, chief clerk of the Treasury.

This area, whose squares are separated by Ohio avenue, is the first which will be made available for parking. It is likely that the next site will be that on which the new Department of Justice Building will be erected. It is bounded by Ninth and Tenth streets, Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues.

Concord Club Property Is Bought by District

One of the few remaining pre-Volstead bars was acquired yesterday by the District Commissioners when they purchased the property of the old Concord Club at 314 C street.

The club, effected through the merger of fourteen German societies, contains bowling alleys, an auditorium and a bar. It is four stories high. The sale price was $42,000. The club will be torn down to make way for the Municipal Center development.

POLICE TO ABANDON WARRANTLESS RAIDS AGAINST GAMBLERS

Chief of Police Also Decrees Inquiry Into Conflicts of Testimony.

COURT CONSIDERATION DENIED SLEUTHS' WORK

'Four Horsemen' Gathered Evidence While Looking 'For a Couple of Fellows.'

Headquarters detectives henceforth will conduct gambling raids only under the sanction of duly sworn warrants. This policy was put in force yesterday after Maj. Henry G. Pratt directed an investigation into the reasons for conflicting testimony given by headquarters detectives in a warrantless raid case which collapsed in Police Court.

Immediately after the case—one of those made by the "Four Horsemen" in the search for a "couple of fellows" who might be involved in the El Salvadorean Legation liquor robbery—District Attorney Leo A. Rover communicated with the Police Department head asking him to inquire into the handling of the case by the sleuths.

Defendants Cleared.

Detective Sergts. Arthur Pihelly, O. W. Mansfield, Howard Ogle and Larry O'Dea, the well-known quartet of "horsemen," made the raid on an alleged downtown gambling establishment, arresting Louis Palumbo and William Baroni. A directed verdict of not guilty was rendered for the former defendant, while the latter was acquitted by jury verdict.

Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of the Detective Bureau, to whom Maj. Pratt assigned investigation of the matter, announced the discontinuance of the warrantless raids. Commenting on the new policy, Inspector Burke said:

"It may be effective to break down the doors of gambling houses, but cases made in this manner don't stand up in court."

Four Cases Postponed.

The detectives, whose contradictory testimony is said to have brought about the negative denouement of the raid cases, were instructed by Inspector Burke to submit statements to him with regard to the matter.

Another result of the collapse of the case against Baroni and Palumbo was seen when four gambling cases, scheduled for trial yesterday, involving warrantless raids by headquarters police, were ordered postponed until August 4 by the district attorney's office.

Cases postponed yesterday involve Jake Ehrlich and Joseph Sullivan, arrested at 500 Tenth street northwest; Frank G. Davis and Joseph Lewis, arrested at 518 Tenth street northwest; Morgan G. Wilson, arrested at 702 Ninth street northwest, and Gustave B. Reinhardt, arrested at 1230 H street northwest.

Heights Stores Close For Merchants' Picnic

Closing their stores at noon to celebrate the event, members of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association will hold their fifth annual outing today. With their families they will go to Chapel Point by auto, the motorcade forming at Fourteenth street and Park road at 11 a. m.

George A. Ford is chairman of the committee on arrangements, assisted by John E. Burgett, William Diamer, H. C. Phillips, C. E. Lavigne, J. Ramsey Maxwell, W. B. Young, M. D. Meyerson, F. K. MacDonald, jr., and Henry G. Slaughter. Barnum A. Levitan is president of the association.

EXTORTION CHARGED TO TWO POLICEMEN IN LIQUOR DEALINGS

Hospidor and Gore Arrested as Recipients of $10 in Marked Bills.

MEN CAPTURED IN TRAP SPRUNG BY INSPECTORS

Police Court Hearing to Be Followed by Facing Trial Board.

Two Fourth Precinct policemen were at liberty late yesterday on $1,500 cash bond as a result of their arrest and suspension on charges of extortion and blackmail in connection with alleged "protection" of liquor law violators. The accused policemen, Privates F. J. Hospidor and E. W. Gore, were arrested by Lieut. O. J. Letterman, Sergt. R. C. Speith and Sergt. E. W. Reed, night inspectors, who had been assigned to run down rumors of purported extortional activities.

Inspector Set Trap.

The men were caught after a trap was set for them by the trio of night inspectors, who had arranged with Frank Adams, 720 First street southwest, to assist. The inspectors said they were in hiding at the First street address when Hospidor and Gore drove up in the former's car. Adams asked the pair to come in the house, but they refused the invitation and left, returning a few minutes later. They then accepted $10 in marked bills, according to Lieut. Letterman, from Adams.

At this point Sergt. Speith leaped on the running board of Hospidor's car and informed him he was under arrest. Hospidor, however, threw the car into gear and started away, but halted the machine when Speith produced his service revolver and leveled it at him.

Bills Thrown in Street.

Gore, according to Lieut. Letterman, had thrown the marked bills into the street, but the night inspector said he found these after a short search and they were being held as evidence against the policemen, who were immediately ordered suspended by Maj. Henry G. Pratt after being booked on the extortion and blackmail charges at the Fourth Precinct.

It is expected that the accused men will be arraigned in Police Court this morning for a preliminary hearing on the extortion charges. Later they will face a police trial board.

Hospidor is 34 years old and lives at 636 Alabama avenue southeast. Gore is 37 years old and lives at 229 Longfellow street northwest. Both have been members of the force for a number of years.

Two Men Are Accused In Attack Upon Woman

Franklin T. Wingate, 21, last night was charged with criminal assault and John D. Sweetman, 22, with assault in connection with the attack on Margaret Hyson, 23, at Half and M street southwest Monday night. The men were arrested Tuesday.

1,000 Members Plan Sodality Union Cruise

One thousand members of the Sodality Union will cruise to Chapel Point today on the Wilson Line steamer, City of Washington, for their annual outing. The program includes a pilgrimage to St. Ignatius Church near the point, the oldest church in this section, where the Rev. Hugh A. Dalton, S. J., will pronounce benediction, and songs will be sung by the Union Chorus.

ACCUSED IN LIQUOR GRAFT

Accused of accepting protection money so that liquor arrests might be forestalled, F. J. Hospidor, left, and E. W. Gore, Fourth Precinct policemen, have been suspended and are facing trial on extortion charges.

HOTEL MAYFLOWER RECEIVERS NAMED

Smith, Kenyon and Holland Told by Court to Operate Big Hostelry.

John Lewis Smith, J. Miller Kenyon and Rush L. Holland yesterday were named receivers for the Mayflower Hotel Co. and the Mayflower Hotels Corporation of America, in an order signed by Justice Peyton Gordon, in the District Supreme Court.

Immediately after the appointment, which followed a memorandum opinion handed down by Justice Gordon the day before, Attorneys William E. Leahy, William J. Hughes, jr., and Edmund M. Toland noted an appeal from the receivership.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Kenyon are former presidents of the District Bar Association, and Mr. Holland was formerly an assistant United States Attorney General. Directed to operate the property as a going concern, they will take over active management of the hotel.

Justice Gordon signed formal orders overruling motion of the two companies to dismiss receivership proceedings, and removing Charles C. Moore, former American Bond & Mortgage Co. official, as trustee under the second mortgage.

Attorneys for Mr. Moore also noted an appeal from his removal as trustee. No one was named to act in his stead. Justice Gordon fixed the receivers' bond at $100,000.

$50,000 Heart Balm Asked of Wallis

J. W. Seeger Says Restaurant Man Alienated Wife's Affections.

Charging his home had been broken up by Edmund C. Wallis, 3140 Nineteenth street northwest, owner of the Wallis Cafe, John W. Seeger, 1418 Spring road northwest, yesterday entered suit for $50,000 against Wallis in the District Supreme Court.

Through Attorneys Darr, Darr & Espey, and George Monk, the plaintiff accused the restaurant operator of "enticing" his wife, Florence Gertrude Seeger, a waitress at the Wallis Cafe, from his society.

He charged that since June, 1929, the defendant has continuously sought the company of his wife, showering gifts upon her, with the result that his "home had been broken up, it has been made desolate and ruined, and his wife's affections for him have been alienated." He said that Mrs. Seeger, who was married to him in October, 1917, refuses to live with him as a result of the defendant's attentions. Mr. Wallis was charged with "contriving and intending to injure the plaintiff."

COMMERCE HOME TO BE OPEN JAN. 1

Moving of Departments to Huge Structure Will Take 60 Days.

The new Department of Commerce Building, the Capital's largest office structure and one of the largest in the world, will be occupied January 1.

Malcolm Kerlin, executive assistant to Secretary Lamont, made the announcement yesterday. Every section of the department, except the Bureaus of Standards and the Census, will be moved into the mammoth building at the beginning of 1932. The structure is now more than 90 per cent completed.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, will supervise moving the equipment now housed in widely separated bureaus. This task in itself is expected to require 60 days.

Employes numbering 4,500 in the Bureaus of Aeronautics, Radio, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Fisheries, Lighthouse, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Steamboat Inspection, Navigation, Patent Office and Mines will make the building their working headquarters.

The Census Bureau will not be affected immediately because of the large number of temporary employes now engaged in tabulating 1930 statistics. The transfer will be made when that bureau returns to a permanent employe basis, probably not before the latter part of 1932.

One of the features of the building, which is 1,050 feet long, 325 feet broad and 7 stories in height, is a conference room which will accommodate 1,000 persons.

The Bureau of Fisheries already is making preparations to occupy its section of the departmental building. It is expected that the aquarium which it will place on exhibit will accomplish much toward making the Commerce Department's central headquarters one of the Capital's outstanding show places.

Appeal to Reinstate Policeman Is Failure

Despite appeal for clemency from two members of the House of Representatives, the District Commissioners yesterday upheld the verdict of the Police Trial Board and ordered W. H. Banning, a private of the Third Precinct, dismissed from the force.

Banning had been found guilty of being intoxicated while on duty and leaving his beat. Representatives Charles Adkins of Illinois, and William P. Cole jr., of Maryland, called attention to the fact that the policeman had a dependent wife and two children.

Vacant House Yields Whisky.

Entering yesterday 69 O street northwest, a vacant house, Second Precinct Detectives H. Rinke and R. S. Bryant found 230 half-gallons of white whisky.

C.M.T.C. MEMBERS ARE GIVEN AWARDS IN FINAL EXERCISES

District, Virginia, Maryland Men End Encampment at Fort Eustis.

COL. MILLER ADDRESSES MEN AFTER LAST PARADE

Col. Van Voorhis Makes Presentations in Reward for Excellence.

Bringing to a close the intensive training period of the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Eustis, Va., exercises were held yesterday, and scholarships, medals and trophies were awarded to various candidates for outstanding work during the encampment. The camp was comprised of men from the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland.

The awards were presented by Col. Daniel Van Voorhis, commanding officer of the mechanized unit at the fort. Following the ceremonies, the men formed into companies on the parade grounds for their final review. Col. C. H. Miller, of the Thirty-fourth Infantry, addressed the men following the regimental parade, officially closing the encampment.

A phase of Army activity which can only be seen at the Virginia fort was one of the features holding the interest of cadets who spent their training period there. The post is the home station of the United States Mechanized Force, and much of the men's time was spent watching this unit in action. Daily demonstrations were given showing how the Army used its armored cars, tanks, self-propelled guns and tractor-drawn artillery.

Members Given Awards.

Members of the encampment presented with awards follow:

John A. B. Baker, of Virginia, was presented a gold medal as the outstanding candidate in the advanced course.

Bronze medals, presented by the Citizens Military Camps Association for excellent work during the encampment were won by John A. B. Baker, Ollie T. Ayers, jr., Harold A. Messersmith, Elbert Harris, David R. Book and Charles C. Cosby, jr., of Virginia; William R. Spates and John A. Livingston, of the District of Columbia, and John M. Banks and Theodore H. Arbia, of Maryland.

Scholarships to the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., were awarded to Ollie T. Ayers, of Portsmouth, Va.; Maxwell S. Foster, of Mathews, Va., and John A. B. Baker, of Richmond, Va., while Robley R. Stearnes, of Dublin, Va.; Theodore A. Dunning, of Suffolk, Va.; Christopher W. Law, of Evington, Va.; Mark D. Woodward, of 1821 Kilbourne place northwest, Washington; Hugh T. Jones, of Dinwiddie, Va., and Julian D. Duncan, of Portsmouth, Va., were given scholarships to William and Mary College, at Williamsburg, Va.

Scholarships Presented.

Scholarships awarded to the Danville Military Institute at Danville, Va., were won by Walter R. Ward, of 2920 Ontario road northwest, Washington; Maurice S. Carmine, of West Point, Va., and Chauncey Brooks, jr., of Charlotte Hall, Md. Louis P. Bohraus, of Alexandria, Va., and Edgar R. Brooks, of Baltimore, Md., were given scholarships to Hampden-Sidney College, at Hampden Sidney, Va.

Gold medals for excellence in citizenship training were awarded to Bryant A. Long, Victor C. Burnett, Christopher W. Law, Alexander S. Hall, Ernest W. H. Pade, William M. Connor, jr., Eugene G. McAbee, Charles E. Forrest, jr., Sterling M. Farley, Louis Krapin, Thomas V. Williamson, jr., and John B. Brady.

Edwin C. Peters, of Fort Blackmore, Va., was given a medal as the best regimental pistol shot, while awards for company high scores in pistol matches were won by Wilson A. Lansford, of Bethesda, Md.; Carl G. Koellner, of Baltimore, Md.; Edwin C. Peters, of Fort Blackmore, Va.; John S. Williams of North Garden, Va.; John B. Baker, of Richmond, Va., and Mark D. Woodward, of Washington.

For High Score With Rifle.

The regimental award for high score with a rifle was presented to David R. Book. Company medals for high score with a rifle were won by W. J. Moran and Thomas M. Canavan, of Maryland; George S. Farrell, Charles R. Beasley and David R. Book, of Virginia, and Frank C. Daniel, of the District.

Prizes for expert marksmanship with a rifle in the basic course of the training were won by Warwick G. Wyatt, Stedson A. Linkhous, Berkley G. Henderson, Frederick G. Tanner, and William C. Catter, of Virginia, and Donald L. Frome, of Maryland.

Thomas W Evans, of Virginia, was the winner of the regimental machine gun matches, and awards for high score in the company machine gun matches were given to Emory M. Hollar, Elbert Harris, Louis Krapin and Henry G. Taylor, of Virginia; Walter W. McCoy, of Maryland, and Alexander P. Gordon, of the District of Columbia.

Hosiery Transaction Leads to Man's Arrest

Michael Allen, 1219 K street northwest, was arrested by Second Precinct detectives yesterday on a charge of false pretenses after Mrs. Theresa Dunn, of the same address, told the police that he had represented himself as a hosiery salesman on July 3 and obtained a $5 deposit.

Mrs. Dunn complained that she had not received the merchandise ordered and, on communicating with the company Allen said he represented, learned that the man was not known there, she said.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Story of an Interview With Capt. Frank Hawks.

I WAS sent out to interview Capt. Hawks. Hawks had been last seen (ten minutes before) at his hotel. I hurried to the hotel. He was not in. There was a note on the table. It read: "Gone to Canada. Back in ten minutes."

* * * *

I waited. He got back in 8 minutes 5 and 4-5 seconds. I told him I wanted to interview him. He said all right. He kept pacing about the room. I asked what made him so uneasy. He said "I hate hotel rooms; you can't get them off the ground."

* * * *

I said I wanted the story of his life. He asked to be excused a minute. In about 30 seconds he phoned me from Chicago and asked if I would postpone the interview. I said no. He apologized and came right back, setting a new world record for the distance.

* * * *

"Hello," I said, as he entered. "I'm sorry I was gone so long," he said.

"That's all right. A couple of minutes are nothing in my life."

* * * *

THEN we got down to the interview. He asked what I wanted to know. I said he was the most colorful airman in the world and would begin by asking where he first took up flying.

I consulted my notes and waited for a reply. There was no answer. I looked up and found myself alone again. I was pretty peeved. I phoned the desk clerk. While I was talking he crashed in through the window.

"Where have you been?" I asked.

"Rome," he said. "Go ahead with your questions. I'll be here for five or ten minutes now."

"Can I depend on it?" I demanded.

"Yes," he said, fumbling some maps. "Where were we, anyhow?"

"You were in Rome. I was right here all the time," I replied.

* * * *

"What were you asking me?" he asked.

"I want to know whether as a boy it was your ambition to be a great flyer, I explained.

"Yes," he replied. "I remember distinctly when I was about 6 years old I used to want to fly. All my playthings were toy airplanes and hangers. It seems only yesterday that——"

His voice was fading.

"Louder, please!" I said.

* * * *

NOW I could hear nothing. I glanced up again. He was missing. decided to phone the office. When I was looking up the number, he returned, quite breezily.

"Where that time?" I asked.

"Moscow," he replied.

* * * *

I told him I wanted him to do me one favor. He asked what it was.

"Don't leave the continent in the middle of a sentence," I said.

He said he would try not to. But when I next heard from him he was over Cape Town.

Talk about business turning a corner on two wheels!

CHIANG KAI-SHEK, President of China's Nationalist government, has offered to quit if all the Chinese armies unite and fight Japan. This goes to show how bored a Chinese ruler can become with the home carnage.

However, the change would give the various Chinese armies some idea whom they are fighting and, if so, why.

MODERN VERSION.
Mother, may I hop o'er the sea?
Yes, my darling daughter;
Pin your hopes on the weather reports
And don't fly near the water!

C. H. R. asks if you've heard of the Scotchman who interprets the "all you can eat for 60 cents" idea to be a five-year plan?

"Says you!" says Dickens.

Slang, as Nerton S. Yewsdale has discovered, is mostly old stuff. For instance, this from Chapter V in "Bleak House," in Dickens:

"That warn't like chancery practice, though, says you!"

Scared Thieves Run as Shot Hits Plate Held by Woman

Mrs. Sarah Koblen got credit for an assist last night when her husband's grocery at 1356 South Capitol street was held up by three colored men. To continue with the baseball figure of speech, three runs, one hit and one error were charged to the losing side.

The hit resulted in the plate being crossed—not only crossed, but broken.

"We want a bottle of pop," said the three intruders to Isadore Koblen as they walked in shortly before 9 o'clock. As he began to fill the order, one of the men drew a large automatic and ordered the grocer to put up his hands. Mr. Koblen complied.

Bandit No. 2 then went behind the counter to clean out the cash register. That's where the error came. The victim yelled in protest and the armed intruder fired at the ceiling.

A moment before Mrs. Koblen had started down the staircase—the family lives above the store—to fill with ice cream the plates she was carrying. Gordon, 14, and Eugene Robert, 7, were upstairs and they like ice cream.

The steel-jacketed bullet shattered a pendant light globe, punctured the ceiling, and fell into Mrs. Koblen's ice cream dish, breaking it.

Frightened, the bandits ran out the store, followed by a pop bottle flung by the irate grocer. They took none of his cash.

Mr. Koblen was shot in the chest about six years ago when held up by three Negroes. The bandits were captured and drew five-year terms.
